Circleville Cagers Top Aquinas, 78-71

By PAUL SMALLWOOD
Herald Staff Writer

Big Bill Johnson's 34 points led the Circleville Tigers to a well-deserved 78-71 victory at Columbus Aquinas High School last night.

In fact, the evenly matched contest turned out to be a Johnson-Johnson struggle. Little Ernie Johnson, standing about 5-7, made things hot for Circleville with 29 points for his Aquinas five.

Johnson of Circleville put on quite a show with some clever shooting ability, especially a deadly one-handed jump shot which he consistantly hit from all over the floor. His 14 field goals in 26 attempts gave him a shooting average of 54 per cent for the night.

The CHS shooting star's performance almost was matched by Johnson of Aquinas who gave Tiger defenders fits all evening with his accuracy from outside and his ability to drive for the basket.

* * *

THE pint-sized cager collected eight buckets and made good on 13 of 15 tosses at the foul line. He was one of the leading scorers in Columbus last year and was named to the all-city team. If last night is an indication he should repeat again this year.

The closely played contest was an uphill struggle for Coach Dick Boyd's Tigers who couldn't get their heads above water until about midway in the third quarter. However, when they did stage a rally they did it in a convincing manner.

With the score knotted, 48-48, in the third period, the CHS cagers suddenly caught fire when Don Rowland hit a long one, Johnson added a jump shot, then hit from down under as did Hosler. Johnson hit again and Hosler dropped in two free throws to give the locals a quick, 60-49 advantage.

With Johnson of Aquinas sitting on the bench with four personal fouls the Tigers upped their lead, 68-53, shortly after the fourth quarter got underway.

At this point Aquinas staged a last-ditch rally which eventually closed the gap to 70-67 with about three minutes remaining. Equal to the occasion, the Tigers held on for these last desperate minutes to preserve victory.

Walt Arledge to the Tigers off to an early lead when he netted a bucket in the opening minutes. Johnson hit a foul shot and Hosler dumped a jump shot to give the locals a 5-1 lead.

* * *

AQUINAS suddenly found the range to go out in front, holding a 23-19 advantage as the quarter ended. Circleville deadlocked the score at 27-27 in the second period, but fell behind, 43-40, at halftime. At this point in the game Johnson of Circleville had 20 markers and Johnson of Aquinas 23.

Getting down to business in the third quarter the Tigers overcame their point deficit, built up a lead and then hung on with grim determination.

Hosler, scorching the nets for 23 points on 10 buckets and three free throws, made Johnson's Sunday scoring punch all the more dangerous. In addition to his point output, the Tiger guard turned in a

Council Boosts City's Pay Scale

Pay raises for 41 city employes and two city elected officials were considered by City Council last night.

Involved are wage boosts for City Treasurer Everett Stocklen, City Solicitor-elect Robert Huffer, nine firemen, 11 policemen, Service Department employes and 10 employes of the water and sewage treatment departments.

All ordinances, except the Fire Department wage raise measure which was considered two weeks ago, were placed on first reading. The firemen's wage law was placed on second reading.

Under the new salary ordinances, the city solicitor's salary would be set at $3,800 annually. Currently the solicitor is getting $2,400, but an additional $1,680 is paid to the city prosecutor for a total of $4,080. When Huffer takes office he plans to handle both jobs for the $3,800 salary.

Stocklen's wage was boosted from the present $500 to $600 annually. He takes care of the city's books and hasn't had a wage increase for several years.

The policemen, with the exception of the chief, will get boosts of $10 a month. The 10 members of the water and sewage treatment departments will get pay boosts ranging from $360 to $300 annually. Manager of the Public Utilities Ervin Leist will get a $300 annual increase to $7,500 a year.

Service Department workers will get hourly pay increases, ranging from 25 cents for foremen to 20 cents for laborers, making the foremen's new wage $1.75 an hour and laborers $1.30 an hour.

Firemen, currently receiving a flat $275 a month regardless of experience, will be boosted to as high as $300 a month after a year's work. In addition, the new ordinance sets up two new posts as lieutenants. They will receive $315 monthly, while the chief's salary is increased from $3,900 to $4,080.

Earlier Council increased its own wages to $600 a year and also boosted the salary of Council President to the same figure. Both were $300 annually.

Circleville May End 1957 With $24,127 'In the Black'

Tight-fisted handling of the city's purse strings by City Council during 1957 will allow the municipal government to wind up this year with more than $24,000 in the general fund.

That was the report last night to Council by Finance Committee chairman George Crites.

Crites indicated that after all December bills are paid, the city should have approximately a $24,127 balance. That is in contrast to the $8,000 balance at the end of last year, Crites said.

The increased balance indicates a healthy financial picture and shrewd handling of city finances.

After the meeting last night, Council sat down to go over appropriations for next year. It's possible the appropriation ordinance will come before the solons at the next meeting, December 17.

In other action, Council passed a land appropriation ordinance. It appropriates easements for the north end sewer project over land owned by Charles and Norma Clay in the Raymond Moats P-A-T subdivision, and also land owned by Jack and Fannie Starkey, Raymond Moats Second subdivision.

* * *

CLAY AND STARKEY have failed to reach an agreement with the city on an easement for the north end sewer, thus the appropriation suit.

Under the terms of the ordinance the city solicitor is authorized to apply to a court to have a jury assess the compensation to be paid the Clays and Starkeys. City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins said the two parties are the only ones who have failed to reach an agreement with the city on easements for the north end sewer.

Council placed on first reading an ordinance appropriating $800 to pay special police salaries for the balance of the year; $362.90 to pay salaries of Health Department personnel, and $100.76 to reimburse the city solicitor for expenses incurred in relation to the city's sewer bond issue.

The solons passed on second reading an ordinance accepting the Lincolnshire Subdivision, near Atwater School. They also passed an ordinance changing the name of St. Clara Ave. to Wood Lane.

Council authorized the solicitor to prepare legislation setting rates of pay for overtime in the Police Department and also for special policemen.

Ohio Is Blanketed By Sudden Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio appeared to have its sudden and surprising snow problems under control today. The weatherman added a note of optimism by saying that there should be very little more snow, exceept possibly in eastern Ohio.

Here is the forecast for the next five days:

Temperatures will average near normal. Normal high: 39 north, 43 south. Normal low: 26-28. Warmer Thursday and Friday. Colder over the weekend. Precipitation will occur mainly as rain Saturday.

All Ohio highways are open but primary roads are slippery in spots and most secondary roads are snow covered, the Ohio Department of Highways reported at noon today.

The department said there is some drifting throughout the state and plowing and cinder spreading operations are continuing.

Roads are normal in an area in southeastern Ohio bounded by Cincinnati, Lebanon and Eaton.

Snow flurries were reported in a large section of central and southern Ohio bounded by Gallipolis, Jackson, Washington C. H., London, Marysville, Marion, Mount Gilead, Coshocton, Cambridge and Woodsfield.

But the snow, which came with unexpected intensity Tuesday and in lesser amounts early today, took its toll.

Sheriff's offices, city police and the Ohio Highway Patrol put together the sad story of weather-related fatalities. Slippery roads and streets caused much of the troubles as the death rate shot up.

At least eight deaths could be attributed directly or indirectly to the weather, authorities indicated.

A prominent churchman was among those killed. Dr. Fred C. Wiegman, 58, president of the Ohio synod of the United Lutheran church, died when his car collided with a tractor-trailer truck about 2½ miles east of West Jefferson.

* * *

THE STATE Highway Patrol said Wiegman's car was struck seconds after the truck, driven by James L. Blum, 27, of Pickerington, skidded out of control. Blum was not hurt, the patrol said.

Dr. Wiegman, a former president of Midland College, Fremont, Neb., was president of the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church. He had been a member of Wittenberg College's board of directors since 1946 and was returning to Wittenberg from an appointment in Columbus, where he made his home, when the accident occurred.

There were scores of relatively minor accidents, prompting a patrolman to comment that "some folks have to learn all over again each winter how to cope with poor road conditions."

With the dwindling of snow flurries and efforts of state, county and municipal road crews, travel conditions were much improved by as early at 5 a. m. Authorities urged caution despite the improved conditions, asking motorists and pedestrians to "start a little earlier and travel a little slower."

Downstate, rain and sleet pelted down, while snow in Columbus Tuesday reached almost eight inches—heaviest single fall of two winter seasons. To the north, the fall reaches three to six inches.

Second Recount Nets School Levy Approval

CLEVELAND (AP)—It took a second recount, but a 2.75-mill levy for an addition to Cleveland Heights High School has squeezed through by 24 votes.

A percentage of 55 was needed and the second recount showed 55.1 per cent.

The levy, apparently beaten in the Nov. 5 election, picked up 43 votes, not quite enough, in the first recount, but gained the necessary margin in the second recount.

Snow Causes 3 Injuries; Schools Close

Clearing skies and sporadic sunshine today started melting off an eight-inch snow blanket here.

However, the respite wasn't to last long, as the forecast calls for cloudy and cold tonight with occasional light snow. Tomorrow will be partly cloudy and warmer.

Three persons were injured as a result of the snow storm here. Two were hurt when their cars collided on Route 22 because of slippery roads and another was hurt by a fall on icy sidewalks.

Three Pickaway County schools have closed down today due to weather conditions, according to County Superintendent George McDowell.

Saltcreek and Darby Twp. schools and New Holland were forced to close their doors because school buses were unable to fight their way through the eight inches of snow that fell on the county yesterday.

* * *

MANY OF THE schools dismissed their students early yesterday, before the roads became impassable. All county basketball games were cancelled last night.

Two motorists were slightly injured when their cars collided yesterday on Route 22 about four miles east of Circleville. Deputy Sheriff Robert Hoover said the accident was caused by slippery road conditions.

The other auto was operated by Thomas J. Woltz, 73, Lancaster. He suffered injuries of the right knee.

Deputy Hoover said both cars were slightly damaged.

Miss Oliver Johnson, 601 S. Washington St., suffered a wrist injury when she slipped on an icy sidewalk. She was admitted to Berger Hospital.

Preparations Going Along On Schedule

Zero Hour for Today Advanced to 4 p.m. At Missile Center

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—If all continues well, America's first earth satellite may be orbiting its way around the globe by sundown today.

The countdown for this nation's first test launching of a "baby moon" passed its halfway point uneventfully this morning and prospects then looked good for the blastoff scheduled for 4 p. m.

The 11 - hour countdown, an item-by-item, minute-by- minute checkup of everything on the launching mechanism that might possibly go wrong, began at 4 a. m.

Shortly before 11 a.m., C. H. Schooley, Defense Department information chief, reported that the countdown has passed its halfway mark without major delay.

Schooley said the lengthy checkoff period started after several hours of "technical preparations and normal preflight cleanup," he added that this took a bit longer than had been anticipated.

Paul Walsh, Vanguard project deputy director, explained that in the countdown, the men in charge of the launching run through a check list of 23 typewritten pages.

As a timing measure, the count is announced over the Cape Canaveral public address system once each hour in the initial stages.

* * *

AS ZERO HOUR approaches, the count is advanced to every five minutes, then to every minute and finally to seconds.

This permits every man to check to see that each part for which he is responsible is functioning as it should at a given moment of time.

"Holds" are so frequent and so routine that it is rare for a launching to be accomplished in the exact time allowed.

On the other hand, things occasionally check out so well that it is possible to speed up certain tests or omit them entirely.

The countdown delays for project Vanguard started at 9 p.m. Tuesday, the first announced hour for a count beginning.

Workers said no major troubles had developed but a myriad of minor electrical difficulties—frayed wires, shorted circuits and the like—had brought delays.

A couple of hours before the first planned launching, the countdown start was deferred to 11 p. m., and then to midnight, then 1 a.m., then 2:45—and so it went.

Much of the difficulty was associated with the first two stages of the three-stage rocket, because they involve the use of highly volatine liquid propellants. Rocket motors using liquid fuel are much more complicated, and hence less

Tentative Jury Seated for Trial

MILLERSBURG (AP)—A jury of five women and seven men was tentatively seated Tuesday in the first degree murder trial of Cleo Eugene Peters, 19, of Muscatine, Iowa, but they still face several challenges by both prosecution and defense.

Defense and prosecution have half their peremptory challenges left, and before the jury can be seated these must be completed.

Peters and Michael Dumoulin, 20, of Wooster are charged with the slaying of an Amish farmer, Paul Coblentz, 25, July 18 during a robbery at the Coblentz farm home near Mount Hope. Dumoulin will go on trial in January.

ADMITS KILLING — Robert Max Fleig, 17, sits in custody in Chicago after admitting to police he killed pretty Mary Wagner, 14. Fleig, a parolee, led police to an ice-encrusted pond where her body lay face down in the water.

Ike Still Seeks Budget Balance

$2 Billion Military Boost Said Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower was described by Republican leaders today as making every effort to keep the budget in balance despite proposed sharp increases in military spending.

Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Saltonstall (R-Mass) said they believe Eisenhower will be able to avoid deficit spending.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he believes a $2 billion hike in funds for missiles, strategic air bases, antisubmarine devices and outer space developments is justified by Russian advances in the missile and satellite field.

"I believe cuts can be made elsewhere in defense and other activities so that the over-all budget will be no higher than this year's," he said. "I am sure President Eisenhower is making every effort to keep it within that framework."

* * *

THE PROPOSED military increase for next year was reported after a five-hour bipartisan White House meeting Tuesday over which Eisenhower presided at intervals for a total of about 2½ hours.

A Republican conferee, who asked not to be named, said new proposals center around the possible pooling of information on nuclear weapons, exchange of scientific information, the training of foreign personnel to handle nuclear weapons and establishment of international scientific scholarships. He said no hydrogen bombs were to be given to other countries.

Wallace Ready For 5th Term

William (Ed) Wallace, 70, has taken out a petition for Democratic nomination for Pickaway County State Representative, according to the County Board of Elections. Wallace will be running for his fifth consecutive term.

Ed, as he is commonly known throughout the county, was born and raised in nearby Kinderhook. He moved to Circleville at the age of 17 and became connected with the bakery business.

In 1911 Wallace Bakery officially opened for business and continued for 39 years. Exactly seven years ago today, Ed sold the business to Gene Lindsey and a month later took office in the State Legislature.

Wallace is a past president of the Ohio Bakers Assn., the Circleville Chamber of Commerce and the Circleville Rotary Club.

Ed lives with his wife Stella at 425 N. Court St. They are the parents of four sons and a daughter.

On December 17 Ed and his wife will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. They have 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Bricker Believes War 'Must Be Prevented'

CLEVELAND (AP) — "It is now possible to make one bomb that would equal in destruction all the bombs dropped by all the countries in World War II," U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker told the Ripon Club here Tuesday.

The club honored the senator as Ohio's "Republican of the Year."

"War must be prevented at all odds." Bricker said. "There would be no winners. Those who survived would survive to a living death."

Officers Nab Suspect at Tink's Tavern

Ross Countian Denies Burglary; Car Is 'Loaded'

Some fast work by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department and city police last night resulted in the capture of a man who is suspected of doing a thorough job of looting Tink's Tavern on old Route 23 north of Circleville.

Held in jail here today is Robert Jackson, 28, Ross County. He was apprehended just as he was getting in his car which was loaded with loot.

The car contained about every thing but the kitchen sink from the local tavern. An investigation of Jackson's car trunk revealed numerous bottles of whiskey, gin, champagne and other alcoholic beverages, cigarettes of all brands, a radio, all types of silverware, phonograph records, new books of sales tax stamps and a money bag partially filled with change. The loot also included two big jars of maraschino cherries.

Tools found in the car included two pairs of gloves, four screwdrivers, four chisels, a grip wrench and a pair of pliers.

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff received a phone tip that someone was in the tavern at about 4 a. m. today. The sheriff immediately notified his deputies who were off duty at the time.

* * *

Within a matter of minutes the sheriff, dputies Dwight Radcliff, Charles Felkey and John Wolford and the two policemen converged on the scene.

According to Sheriff Radcliff, Jackson said he had no idea how all that loot got into his car. Further questioning today still failed to crack the captured man's story.

Deputies Radcliff, Felkey and Wolford were in Ross County today investigating Jackson's past record and character after questioning failed to produce any worthwhile information.

Sheriff Radcliff said the tavern was thoroughly ransacked and left in "quite a mess." He said charges probably will be filed against Jackson after a further investigation is completed.

Martins Ferry Fire Kills 6

Oil Heater Upsets In Glass Factory

MARTINS FERRY (AP)—An oil heater which was accidentally knocked over turned the Porter Glass Co. here into an inferno which killed six persons.

All of the dead were employes at the small glass blowing company. They art:

Miss Hazel Cramblett, 31, Wheeling, W. Va.; Mrs. Rose K. McMahon, 21, Martins Ferry; Mrs. Frances Good, 37, Bellaire; Miss Goldie Gibbons, 23, Yorkville; Mrs. Mary Jane Byard, Martins Ferry, and Matthew McElroy, 35, of Martins Ferry.

The five women are believed to have been trapped on the second floor of the two-floor, 75-year-old frame structure.

Six persons were injured in the fire. They include the plant owner, A. H. Porter of Wheeling, W. Va., and three other workers in the plant. All were taken to Martins Ferry Hospital and are reported in "good" condition. The other five are:

* * *

THOMAS LONGWELL, 22; David Cuddihy, 19, and Gilber Stauffer, 43, all of Martins Ferry and employes of the company; Thomas Smith, 4, who lives near the plant and is believed to have been burned by falling wood, and James Taylor, a Martins Ferry fireman.

Cuddihy believes he started the fire when he knocked over an oil heater on the first floor. Within minutes the flames had engulfed the building.

Firemen said the structure originally housed an automobile body shop and the grease and oil which had saturated the floors helped the fire spread rapidly.

Damage, not yet determined, was not confined to the company. A 12-room frame house next door was destroyed, as well as about a dozen automobiles parked near the building. About six other homes reported minor damage.

U. S. Even Lacks a Name For Its Proposed Satellite

By ED CREAGH
(AP Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has the sputnik but we still don't have a name for our own satellite.

This is not the fault of the American people. A newspaper writer (this one, as a matter of fact) invited suggestions some weeks ago and the replies are still coming in. Very ingenious, many of them. The public applied itself to giving the little moonlet a name.

Trouble is not many of the suggestions are likely to appeal to those in authority. They tend to be a bit sarcastic. To point up the fact that this country was a couple of months behind a certain other great power in getting a baby moon operating.

C. J. McQuade, managing editor of the Beckley, W. Va., Raleigh Register, suggests the name "fore," explaining:

"This golfing term is rightly or wrongly identified with the American government. Too, it sometimes denotes late comers who for one reason or another get in a hurry."

"Just name it 'the laggard,'" proposes Telmer P. Vaughan of Charleston, S. C. — an idea that may not appeal to the planners of Navy operation Vanguard, which was given the job of getting the moonlet and others like it off the ground.

"The name, naturally, would be 'disputnik,'" gibes Ed Ritcher of Nazareth, Pa.

And Dick Gibbons of the Battle Creek, Mich., Enquirer and News suggests either "mad ball" or "bltn," the latter meaning — not "bacon, lettuce and tomato on nutbread," as you might suppose, but "better late than never."

Not all the suggestions are of a scoffing nature, to be sure.

Dallas Brightwell of Frankfort, Ky., offers "ikenik" as a tribute to both President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

And Winifred M. Flynn of Hammond, Ind., contributes "red herring II" as a reproach to Communists who have stolen U. S. scientific secrets.

Doubtless there is food for thought in all these proposed names. But none, somehow, taps you in the back of the head like good old "sputnik," to say nothing of the latter "muttnik."

"Sputnik" is, of course, nothing more or less than the Russian word for "satellite." Maybe we'd be well advised to follow the Russians' example, stop trying to be clever and just call a spade a spade — or, in this case, a satellite a satellite.

Maybe "satellite" sounds as crazy to the Russians as "sputnik" does to us.

Ohio appeared to have its sudden and surprising snow problems under control today. The weatherman added a note of optimism by saying that there should be very little more snow, except possibly in eastern Ohio.

Here is the forecast for the next five days:

Temperatures will average near normal. Normal high: 39 north, 43 south. Normal low: 26-28. Warmer Thursday and Friday. Colder over the weekend. Precipitation will occur mainly as rain Saturday.

All Ohio highways are open but primary roads are slippery in spots and most secondary roads are snow covered, the Ohio Department of Highways reported at noon today.

The department said there is some drifting throughout the state and plowing and cinder spreading operations are continuing.

Roads are normal in an area in southeastern Ohio bounded by Cincinnati, Lebanon and Eaton.

Snow flurries were reported in a large section of central and southern Ohio bounded by Gallipolis, Jackson, Washington C. H., London, Marysville, Marion, Mount Gilead, Coshocton, Cambridge and Woodsfield.

But the snow, which came with unexpected intensity Tuesday and in lesser amounts early today, took its toll.

Sheriff's offices, city police and the Ohio Highway Patrol put together the sad story of weather-related fatalities. Slippery roads and streets caused much of the troubles as the death rate shot up.

At least eight deaths could be attributed directly or indirectly to the weather, authorities indicated.

A prominent churchman was among those killed. Dr. Fred C. Wiegman, 58, president of the Ohio synod of the United Lutheran church, died when his car collided with a tractor-trailer truck about 2½ miles east of West Jefferson.

* * *

THE STATE Highway Patrol said Wiegman's car was struck seconds after the truck, driven by James L. Blum, 27, of Pickerington, skidded out of control. Blum was not hurt, the patrol said.

Dr. Wiegman, a former president of Midland College, Fremont, Neb., was president of the Board of American Missions of the United Lutheran Church. He had been a member of Wittenberg College's board of directors since 1946 and was returning to Wittenberg from an appointment in Columbus, where he made his home, when the accident occurred.

There were scores of relatively minor accidents, prompting a patrolman to comment that "some folks have to learn all over again each winter how to cope with poor road conditions."

With the dwindling of snow flurries and efforts of state, county and municipal road crews, travel conditions were much improved by as early at 5 a. m. Authorities urged caution despite the improved conditions, asking motorists and pedestrians to "start a little earlier and travel a little slower."

Downstate, rain and sleet pelted down, while snow in Columbus Tuesday reached almost eight inches—heaviest single fall of two winter seasons. To the north, the fall reaches three to six inches.

Second Recount Nets School Levy Approval

CLEVELAND (AP)—It took a second recount, but a 2.75-mill levy for an addition to Cleveland Heights High School has squeezed through by 24 votes.

A percentage of 55 was needed and the second recount showed 55.1 per cent.

The levy, apparently beaten in the Nov. 5 election, picked up 43 votes, not quite enough, in the first recount, but gained the necessary margin in the second recount.

Snow Causes 3 Injuries; Schools Close

Clearing skies and sporadic sunshine today started melting off an eight-inch snow blanket here.

However, the respite wasn't to last long, as the forecast calls for cloudy and cold tonight with occasional light snow. Tomorrow will be partly cloudy and warmer.

Three persons were injured as a result of the snow storm here. Two were hurt when their cars collided on Route 22 because of slippery roads and another was hurt by a fall on icy sidewalks.

Three Pickaway County schools have closed down today due to weather conditions, according to County Superintendent George McDowell.

Saltcreek and Darby Twp. schools and New Holland were forced to close their doors because school buses were unable to fight their way through the eight inches of snow that fell on the county yesterday.

* * *

MANY OF THE schools dismissed their students early yesterday, before the roads became impassable. All county basketball games were cancelled last night.

Two motorists were slightly injured when their cars collided yesterday on Route 22 about four miles east of Circleville. Deputy Sheriff Robert Hoover said the accident was caused by slippery road conditions.

The other auto was operated by Thomas J. Woltz, 73, Lancaster. He suffered injuries of the right knee.

Deputy Hoover said both cars were slightly damaged.

Miss Oliver Johnson, 601 S. Washington St., suffered a wrist injury when she slipped on an icy sidewalk. She was admitted to Berger Hospital.

Preparations Going Along On Schedule

Zero Hour for Today Advanced to 4 p.m. At Missile Center

MISSILE TEST CENTER, Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—If all continues well, America's first earth satellite may be orbiting its way around the globe by sundown today.

The countdown for this nation's first test launching of a "baby moon" passed its halfway point uneventfully this morning and prospects then looked good for the blastoff scheduled for 4 p. m.

The 11 - hour countdown, an item-by-item, minute-by-minute checkup of everything on the launching mechanism that might possibly go wrong, began at 4 a. m.

Shortly before 11 a.m., C. H. Schooley, Defense Department information chief, reported that the countdown has passed its halfway mark without major delay.

Schooley said the lengthy checkoff period started after several hours of "technical preparations and normal preflight cleanup," he added that this took a bit longer than had been anticipated.

Paul Walsh, Vanguard project deputy director, explained that in the countdown, the men in charge of the launching run through a check list of 23 typewritten pages.

As a timing measure, the count is announced over the Cape Canaveral public address system once each hour in the initial stages.

* * *

AS ZERO HOUR approaches, the count is advanced to every five minutes, then to every minute and finally to seconds.

This permits every man to check to see that each part for which he is responsible is functioning as it should at a given moment of time.

"Holds" are so frequent and so routine that it is rare for a launching to be accomplished in the exact time allowed.

On the other hand, things occasionally check out so well that it is possible to speed up certain tests or omit them entirely.

The countdown delays for project Vanguard started at 9 p.m. Tuesday, the first announced hour for a count beginning.

Workers said no major troubles had developed but a myriad of minor electrical difficulties—frayed wires, shorted circuits and the like—had brought delays.

A couple of hours before the first planned launching, the countdown start was deferred to 11 p. m., and then to midnight, then 1 a.m., then 2:45—and so it went.

Much of the difficulty was associated with the first two stages of the three-stage rocket, because they involve the use of highly volatine liquid propellants. Rocket motors using liquid fuel are much more complicated, and hence less

MILLERSBURG (AP)—A jury of five women and seven men was tentatively seated Tuesday in the first degree murder trial of Cleo Eugene Peters, 19, of Muscatine, Iowa, but they still face several challenges by both prosecution and defense.

Defense and prosecution have half their peremptory challenges left, and before the jury can be seated these must be completed.

Peters and Michael Dumoulin, 20, of Wooster are charged with the slaying of an Amish farmer, Paul Coblentz, 25, July 18 during a robbery at the Coblentz farm home near Mount Hope. Dumoulin will go on trial in January.

ADMITS KILLING — Robert Max Fleig, 17, sits in custody in Chicago after admitting to police he killed pretty Mary Wagner, 14. Fleig, a parolee, led police to an ice-encrusted pond where her body lay face down in the water.

Ike Still Seeks Budget Balance

$2 Billion Military Boost Said Planned

WASHINGTON (AP)— President Eisenhower was described by Republican leaders today as making every effort to keep the budget in balance despite proposed sharp increases in military spending.

Senators Bridges (R-NH) and Saltonstall (R-Mass) said they believe Eisenhower will be able to avoid deficit spending.

Bridges, chairman of the Senate Republican Policy Committee, said he believes a $2 billion hike in funds for missiles, strategic air bases, antisubmarine devices and outer space developments is justified by Russian advances in the missile and satellite field.

"I believe cuts can be made elsewhere in defense and other activities so that the over-all budget will be no higher than this year's," he said. "I am sure President Eisenhower is making every effort to keep it within that framework."

* * *

THE PROPOSED military increase for next year was reported after a five-hour bipartisan White House meeting Tuesday over which Eisenhower presided at intervals for a total of about 2½ hours.

A Republican conferee, who asked not to be named, said new proposals center around the possible pooling of information on nuclear weapons, exchange of scientific information, the training of foreign personnel to handle nuclear weapons and establishment of international scientific scholarships. He said no hydrogen bombs were to be given to other countries.

Wallace Ready For 5th Term

William (Ed) Wallace, 70, has taken out a petition for Democratic nomination for Pickaway County State Representative, according to the County Board of Elections. Wallace will be running for his fifth consecutive term.

Ed, as he is commonly known throughout the county, was born and raised in nearby Kinderhook. He moved to Circleville at the age of 17 and became connected with the bakery business.

In 1911 Wallace Bakery officially opened for business and continued for 39 years. Exactly seven years ago today, Ed sold the business to Gene Lindsey and a month later took office in the State Legislature.

Wallace is a past president of the Ohio Bakers Assn., the Circleville Chamber of Commerce and the Circleville Rotary Club.

Ed lives with his wife Stella at 425 N. Court St. They are the parents of four sons and a daughter.

On December 17 Ed and his wife will celebrate their 50th wedding anniversary. They have 14 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Bricker Believes War 'Must Be Prevented'

CLEVELAND (AP) — "It is now possible to make one bomb that would equal in destruction all the bombs dropped by all the countries in World War II," U. S. Sen. John W. Bricker told the Ripon Club here Tuesday.

The club honored the senator as Ohio's "Republican of the Year."

"War must be prevented at all odds." Bricker said. "There would be no winners. Those who survived would survive to a living death."

Officers Nab Suspect at Tink's Tavern

Ross Countian Denies Burglary; Car Is 'Loaded'

Some fast work by the Pickaway County Sheriff's Department and city police last night resulted in the capture of a man who is suspected of doing a thorough job of looting Tink's Tavern on old Route 23 north of Circleville.

Held in jail here today is Robert Jackson, 28, Ross County. He was apprehended just as he was getting in his car which was loaded with loot.

The car contained about every thing but the kitchen sink from the local tavern. An investigation of Jackson's car trunk revealed numerous bottles of whiskey, gin, champagne and other alcoholic beverages, cigarettes of all brands, a radio, all types of silverware, phonograph records, new books of sales tax stamps and a money bag partially filled with change. The loot also included two big jars of maraschino cherries.

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff received a phone tip that someone was in the tavern at about 4 a. m. today. The sheriff immediately notified his deputies who were off duty at the time.

* * *

Within a matter of minutes the sheriff, dputies Dwight Radcliff, Charles Felkey and John Wolford and the two policemen converged on the scene.

According to Sheriff Radcliff, Jackson said he had no idea how all that loot got into his car. Further questioning today still failed to crack the captured man's story.

Deputies Radcliff, Felkey and Wolford were in Ross County today investigating Jackson's past record and character after questioning failed to produce any worthwhile information.

Sheriff Radcliff said the tavern was thoroughly ransacked and left in "quite a mess." He said charges probably will be filed against Jackson after a further investigation is completed.

Martins Ferry Fire Kills 6

Oil Heater Upsets In Glass Factory

MARTINS FERRY (AP)—An oil heater which was accidentally knocked over turned the Porter Glass Co. here into an inferno which killed six persons.

All of the dead were employes at the small glass blowing company. They are:

Miss Hazel Cramblett, 31, Wheeling, W. Va.; Mrs. Rose K. McMahon, 21, Martins Ferry; Mrs. Frances Good, 37, Bellaire; Miss Goldie Gibbons, 23, Yorkville; Mrs. Mary Jane Byard, Martins Ferry, and Matthew McElroy, 35, of Martins Ferry.

The five women are believed to have been trapped on the second floor of the two-floor, 75-year-old frame structure.

Six persons were injured in the fire. They include the plant owner, A. H. Porter of Wheeling, W. Va., and three other workers in the plant. All were taken to Martins Ferry Hospital and are reported in "good" condition. The other five are:

* * *

THOMAS LONGWELL, 22; David Cuddihy, 19, and Gilber Stauffer, 43, all of Martins Ferry and employes of the company; Thomas Smith, 4, who lives near the plant and is believed to have been burned by falling wood, and James Taylor, a Martins Ferry fireman.

Cuddihy believes he started the fire when he knocked over an oil heater on the first floor. Within minutes the flames had engulfed the building.

Firemen said the structure originally housed an automobile body shop and the grease and oil which had saturated the floors helped the fire spread rapidly.

Damage, not yet determined, was not confined to the company. A 12-room frame house next door was destroyed, as well as about a dozen automobiles parked near the building. About six other homes reported minor damage.

U. S. Even Lacks a Name For Its Proposed Satellite

By ED CREAGH
(AP Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia has the sputnik but we still don't have a name for our own satellite.

This is not the fault of the American people. A newspaper writer (this one, as a matter of fact) invited suggestions some weeks ago and the replies are still coming in. Very ingenious, many of them. The public applied itself to giving the little moonlet a name.

Trouble is not many of the suggestions are likely to appeal to those in authority. They tend to be a bit sarcastic. To point up the fact that this country was a couple of months behind a certain other great power in getting a baby moon operating.

C. J. McQuade, managing editor of the Beckley, W. Va., Raleigh Register, suggests the name "fore," explaining:

"This golfing term is rightly or wrongly identified with the American government. Too, it sometimes denotes late comers who for one reason or another get in a hurry."

"Just name it 'the laggard,'" proposes Telmer P. Vaughan of Charleston, S. C. — an idea that may not appeal to the planners of Navy operation Vanguard, which was given the job of getting the moonlet and others like it off the ground.

"The name, naturally, would be 'disputnik,'" gibes Ed Ritcher of Nazareth, Pa.

And Dick Gibbons of the Battle Creek, Mich., Enquirer and News suggests either "mad ball" or "bltn," the latter meaning — not "bacon, lettuce and tomato on nutbread," as you might suppose, but "better late than never."

Not all the suggestions are of a scoffing nature, to be sure.

Dallas Brightwell of Frankfort, Ky., offers "ikenik" as a tribute to both President Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon.

And Winifred M. Flynn of Hammond, Ind., contributes "red herring II" as a reproach to Communists who have stolen U. S. scientific secrets.

Doubtless there is food for thought in all these proposed names. But none, somehow, taps you in the back of the head like good old "sputnik," to say nothing of the latter "muttnik."

"Sputnik" is, of course, nothing more or less than the Russian word for "satellite." Maybe we'd be well advised to follow the Russians' example, stop trying to be clever and just call a spade a spade — or, in this case, a satellite a satellite.

Maybe "satellite" sounds as crazy to the Russians as "sputnik" does to us.

Adlai Quitting As Ike Adviser

Dem Leader Declines To Join Paris Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson started slipping out of his role as an adviser to the Eisenhower administration today.

The titular head of the Democratic party announced Tuesday night he had no desire to extend his consultations to the Dec. 16 Atlantic Pact NATO meeting in Paris.

He gave this reason: If he went, he would be "without authority."

Stevenson said he agreed with most of the Eisenhower proposals for revitalizing NATO, to be presented at Paris. But he acknowledged "differences between us." Without authority to make policies, he would be in the dilemma of having to support those with which he disagreed, or keeping silent through a patriotic desire not to upset the unity cart. In any case he feared his friends at home and abroad would have been inhibited or misled.

All this was set forth in Stevenson's formal statement explaining why he turned down the Paris invitation which Eisenhower had extended 10 hours earlier.

* * *

HE SAID HE felt there was no place at Paris for a Democratic consultant — "Washington is the place for me to do my consulting." said he will work through this week studying, reviewing and commenting on the still-secret Eisenhower proposals.

Stevenson had no outright criticism of Eisenhower or Eisenhower's proposal. But informed sources said both the President's actions and his program were factors.

There were other factors too. For one thing, a good many Democrats objected to Stevenson's going even so far as providing Democratic counsel on ways to cope with Russia's advances.

Sophomore Dick Smith made another commendable showing, collecting nine points along with some good defensive play. Junior Don Rowland, seeing varsity action for the first time, came up with six points and performed like a veteran in the back court.

ALTHOUGH encountering some difficulty from the field, the Kittens managed to lead in the first quarter, 7-2, and 11-8 at intermission. Their 11 points in the last two quarters were not enough to cope with 16 scored by the winners.

Center Leo Moats tallied seven points and Arch Ward and Jake Bailey each collected five for the CHS forces. Rhodes with nine points was high for Aquinas.

The Tigers are idle until December 13 when they travel to Washington C. H. to open their South Central Ohio League campaign. The next night they entertain the Cavaliers of Chillicothe.

As a team the Tigers connected on 30 of 73 attempts from the field for a respectable 41 per cent average. They added 18 of 32 foul shot tries.

Aquinas compiled a 35 per cent average with 22 buckets in 63 attempts. The host players were deadly at the foul line, making good on 27 of 34 chances.

Sinatra, Washed-Up Crooner, Now a One-Man Industry

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What brought about the change in Frank Sinatra from washed-up crooner to one-man industry?

During a bull session on the set of "Kings Go Forth," he gave some insight on the answer. His rejuvenation appears to be due in large part to psychiatry, success and common sense.

"For the first time in my life, I'm organized," he observed. "I had to learn the hard way, but now I know that I can only do one thing at a time. Oh, when I think of the energy I wasted 10 years ago trying to do everything at once and getting nothing done really well!

"Now I know what I'm doing. All of today, I'll devote my time to this picture, giving it all my concentration. Then I'll go have dinner and go to a recording session from 9 to midnight at Capitol Records."

Thus he devotes himself to his many enterprises one at a time, without getting frantic about any of them. He once sought help from psychiatry.

"I was under analysis for six months once," he said. "The reason was that I had a couple of specific problems I had to work out. I got them off my chest and that was that."

Frank conceded that success had a lot to do with ironing out his conflicts.

His pictures, for example, now earn him more than a salary. He is a partner in each of them. He figures to make a pile from "The Joker Is Wild" and "Pal Joey," both of which are cleaning up at the box office.

Reports are current that Sinatra is making as much as 4 million dollars this year. I asked if such figures were true.

"I don't know," he sighed. "All I see is figures on sheets of paper. Last night I couldn't buy the Mike Romanoffs a drink because I had only $4 in my pocket. Today I asked my business manager for $100 spending money and he turned me down."

For Convalescent, Ike Is Busy Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a convalescing man ordered to take it easy, President Eisenhower is leading a pretty busy life nine days after his mild stroke.

But his recuperation progress "continues to be excellent," and so long as that is the case there will be no more medical bulletins on his condition, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty announced Tuesday.

From the time Eisenhower was stricken Nov. 25 with a blockage of a branch artery to the brain there had been at least one bulletin daily.

In response to a question, Hagerty said the discontinuance does not mean the President is fully recovered. It simply means, he said, that there is no point in going ahead with issuance of bulletins saying without variation that Eisenhower still is getting along fine.

Friday, eight days after the onset of his illness, Eisenhower put in 7½ hours at the White House. It was the kind of day that varied in no outward way from many others he had spent there before this latest illness.

* * *

THIS IS THE way it went:

Eisenhower turned up in his office at 8:15 a.m. He worked there for about 45 minutes, got in during that period a brief conference with Adlai Stevenson, then went to the nearby Cabinet room to preside at a briefing of congressional leaders of both parties of national defense and foreign policy problems.

He stayed on at that conference for 90 minutes, went back to his office for about an hour, then returned to the meeting. He was at the session a total of 2½ hours.

Then he knocked off 90 minutes for lunch and the midday rest his doctors prescirbed after his 1955 heart attack. He was back in his office by 2:30 p.m. and he didn't call it a day until about 5:15 p.m.

During the afternoon he conferred with his new scientific adviser, Dr. James R. Killian Jr., dictated letters to Ann Whitman, his personal secretary, conferred for 45 minutes with Vice President Nixon, then worked for a while on miscellaneous matters.

All that was against the background of the announcement by tht President's doctors Nov. 26 that his illness would require several weeks of rest and "substantially decreased activity."

Asked then how the President looked and felt when he finally called it quits late Tuesday, Hagerty said: "He looked perfectly natural and quite chipper."

The press secretary announced Eisenhower plans to spend another long and restful weekend at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Red Unions Take Over 3 Dutch Firms

JAKARTA (AP) — Communist-led trade unio. today took over a third major Dutch enterprise and set a watch on three leading Dutch banks in the downtown business section.

A government source said that the Cabinet had held a special session to discuss ways of preventing a wholesale take-over of Dutch firms by the unions. But so far the government was moving cautiously.

The Sobsi Trade Union Federation informed the Jacobson Van Den Berg Trading Co. at noon that its members were taking control.

Officials of the company, the third largest Dutch firm in Indonesia, protested that the union action was without authority.

Union leaders who demanded control of the trading firm said, however, that they had received no instructions from the government not to take charge.

Workers seized the offices of the KPM Royal Netherlands Shipping Lines and the Royal Interocean Lines Tuesday, raising the red flag of the Sobsi Union Federation and sending Dutch employes home without their cars.

A spokesman commented that the Dutch Embassy is "completely in the dark as to the Indonesian government's future intentions."

The judge also referred his case to common pleas court with six additional penalty points for possible license revocation. He got six points last summer.

Israel Delays Convoy During Jordan Fuss

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel today held up dispatch of a disputed convoy through Jordanian territory as U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion held a long private conference.

Refusal by Jordan to let gasoline-carrying convoys through the Israeli-held Mt. Scopus enclave, one of the causes of Hammarskjold's Middle East visit, continued despite his talks Monday in Amman with Jordanian officials. The secretary general began conversations with Israeli officials here Tuesday.

Jordan turned back the last convoy two weeks ago because it carried nine drums of gasoline. Jordanian officials charged the gas would be used by Israeli police and caretaker forces on demilitarized Mt. Scopus in connection with fortification work prohibited by the Palestine armistice.

Israel denied that any military work was involved. Her spokesmen said the gasoline would be used to run an electric generator.

"There are no fortifications in the Israel Mt. Scopus sector," an Israeli spokesman said today. The area involved is about 900 by 400 feet in size, east of the Jordan-occupied old city of Jerusalem. The hill is the site of the Hadassah Hospital, Hebrew University and a 500,000-volume library, all inoperative but maintained by Israeli caretakers.

Roosevelt Chuckles At Shiek's Offer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif) says he has received about 2,000 letters giving advice since he mentioned an offer by an Arab shiek to marry his mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The sheik now has 39 wives.

"Some said if I couldn't get her married off to that shiek to try another," Roosevelt said.

"Others asked why I should want to break it up—that if it was true love it should blossom.

Teamsters About To Receive Final Axing from AFL-CIO

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —The AFL-CIO Executive Council gathered today to recommend a formal expulsion of the Teamsters Union, which claims a tenth of the federation's 15 million members.

The council was acting on corruption charges developed in months of hearings before the Senate Rackets Committee.

It also was expected to vote expulsion recommendations for the Bakery, Laundry and Distillery Workers unions, similarly involved in charges of corruption.

The recommendations will go to the AFL-CIO convention convening here Thursday.

Expulsion of the four unions, with about 1¾ million members, was mapped by AFL-CIO President George Meany as a demonstration that organized labor can deal effectively with racketeering in labor's ranks.

Meany and other AFL-CIO chiefs hoped it would help them stave off threatened punitive legislation from Congress and warn leaders of other unions against mulcting union funds.

The Teamsters, Bakers and Laundry Workers already are under AFL-CIO suspension and their expulsion was regarded as only a formality.

Meany and the AFL-CIO council have on a number of occasions said that for the Teamsters to avoid expulsion the union must oust James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president-elect; Dave Beck, the union's retiring president; and others named in Senate hearings.

The Distillery Workers Union is under AFL-CIO probation, but ousted leaders of the union recently took over their offices again and the union is expected to face renewed AFL-CIO ouster proceedings.

In another preliminary to the start of federation convention sessions, the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department planned to act today at its seperate convention on resolutions calling for quitting the federation unless jurisdictional troubles are settled.

WHILE THE 72-foot-tall rocket, slender and graceful stood white and sere in its launching stand, excitement swirled about it. Cape Canaveral, closed to all outsiders, blazed with floodlights.

The Navy has been assigned the responsibility for launching six or more small scientific satellites during the International Geophysical Year now in progress.

The Vanguard consists of a ton of metal and 10 tons of fuel.

Its first stage is 44 feet long and almost 4 feet wide, its second 31 feet long and 32 inches in diameter, and its third 5 feet long and 18 inches in diameter. Because parts of the stages fit within each other, their cumulative length is only 72 feet.

The General Electric rocket motor of the first stage, using liquid oxygen and kerosene, was designed to produce 27,000 pounds of thrust, to burn for about 2½ minutes, and to take the device to an altitude of 35 miles and to a speed of 3,700 miles an hour.

The second stage, with an Aerojet General rocket fueled with nitric acid and unsymmetrical dimethyl hydrazine, has an assigned thrust of 7,500 pounds and a burning time of two minutes. It was to burn out at an altitude of 130 miles and a speed of 9,000 miles an hour, and then to coast to an altitude of 300 miles before separating from the third stage while traveling parallel to the earth.

The Grand Central rocket motor of the third stage would give the satellite its spurt to orbital speed of 18,000 miles an hour, and then would gently separate from the sphere. The five-foot long magnesium shell of the third stage, painted white to reflect the sun, will orbit along behind the aluminum ball. Some say it will outlive the tiny satellite.

Adlai Quitting As Ike Adviser

Dem Leader Declines To Join Paris Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Adlai E. Stevenson started slipping out of his role as an adviser to the Eisenhower administration today.

The titular head of the Democratic party announced Tuesday night he had no desire to extend his consultations to the Dec. 16 Atlantic Pact NATO meeting in Paris.

He gave this reason: If he went, he would be "without authority."

Stevenson said he agreed with most of the Eisenhower proposals for revitalizing NATO, to be presented at Paris. But he acknowledged "differences between us." Without authority to make policies, he would be in the dilemma of having to support those with which he disagreed, or keeping silent through a patriotic desire not to upset the unity cart. In any case he feared his friends at home and abroad would have been inhibited or misled.

All this was set forth in Stevenson's formal statement explaining why he turned down the Paris invitation which Eisenhower had extended 10 hours earlier.

* * *

HE SAID HE felt there was no place at Paris for a Democratic consultant — "Washington is the place for me to do my consulting." said he will work through this week studying, reviewing and commenting on the still-secret Eisenhower proposals.

Stevenson had no outright criticism of Eisenhower or Eisenhower's proposal. But informed sources said both the President's actions and his program were factors.

There were other factors too. For one thing, a good many Democrats objected to Stevenson's going even so far as providing Democratic counsel on ways to cope with Russia's advances.

Sophomore Dick Smith made another commendable showing, collecting nine points along with some good defensive play. Junior Don Rowland, seeing varsity action for the first time, came up with six points and performed like a veteran in the back court.

ALTHOUGH encountering some difficulty from the field, the Kittens managed to lead in the first quarter, 7-2, and 11-8 at intermission. Their 11 points in the last two quarters were not enough to cope with 16 scored by the winners.

Center Leo Moats tallied seven points and Arch Ward and Jake Bailey each collected five for the CHS forces. Rhodes with nine points was high for Aquinas.

The Tigers are idle until December 13 when they travel to Washington C. H. to open their South Central Ohio League campaign. The next night they entertain the Cavaliers of Chillicothe.

As a team the Tigers connected on 30 of 73 attempts from the field for a respectable 41 per cent average. They added 18 of 32 foul shot tries.

Aquinas compiled a 35 per cent average with 22 buckets in 63 attempts. The host players were deadly at the foul line, making good on 27 of 34 chances.

Sinatra, Washed-Up Crooner, Now a One-Man Industry

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—What brought about the change in Frank Sinatra from washed-up crooner to one-man industry?

During a bull session on the set of "Kings Go Forth," he gave some insight on the answer. His rejuvenation appears to be due in large part to psychiatry, success and common sense.

"For the first time in my life, I'm organized," he observed. "I had to learn the hard way, but now I know that I can only do one thing at a time. Oh, when I think of the energy I wasted 10 years ago trying to do everything at once and getting nothing done really well!

"Now I know what I'm doing. All of today, I'll devote my time to this picture, giving it all my concentration. Then I'll go have dinner and go to a recording session from 9 to midnight at Capitol Records."

Thus he devotes himself to his many enterprises one at a time, without getting frantic about any of them. He once sought help from psychiatry.

"I was under analysis for six months once," he said. "The reason was that I had a couple of specific problems I had to work out. I got them off my chest and that was that."

Frank conceded that success had a lot to do with ironing out his conflicts.

His pictures, for example, now earn him more than a salary. He is a partner in each of them. He figures to make a pile from "The Joker Is Wild" and "Pal Joey," both of which are cleaning up at the box office.

Reports are current that Sinatra is making as much as 4 million dollars this year. I asked if such figures were true.

"I don't know," he sighed. "All I see is figures on sheets of paper. Last night I couldn't buy the Mike Romanoffs a drink because I had only $4 in my pocket. Today I asked my business manager for $100 spending money and he turned me down."

For Convalescent, Ike Is Busy Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — For a convalescing man ordered to take it easy, President Eisenhower is leading a pretty busy life nine days after his mild stroke.

But his recuperation progress "continues to be excellent," and so long as that is the case there will be no more medical bulletins on his condition, White House press secretary James C. Hagerty announced Tuesday.

From the time Eisenhower was stricken Nov. 25 with a blockage of a branch artery to the brain there had been at least one bulletin daily.

In response to a question, Hagerty said the discontinuance does not mean the President is fully recovered. It simply means, he said, that there is no point in going ahead with issuance of bulletins saying without variation that Eisenhower still is getting along fine.

Friday, eight days after the onset of his illness, Eisenhower put in 7½ hours at the White House. It was the kind of day that varied in no outward way from many others he had spent there before this latest illness.

* * *

THIS IS THE way it went:

Eisenhower turned up in his office at 8:15 a.m. He worked there for about 45 minutes, got in during that period a brief conference with Adlai Stevenson, then went to the nearby Cabinet room to preside at a briefing of congressional leaders of both parties of national defense and foreign policy problems.

He stayed on at that conference for 90 minutes, went back to his office for about an hour, then returned to the meeting. He was at the session a total of 2½ hours.

Then he knocked off 90 minutes for lunch and the midday rest his doctors prescribed after his 1955 heart attack. He was back in his office by 2:30 p.m. and he didn't call it a day until about 5:15 p.m.

During the afternoon he conferred with his new scientific adviser, Dr. James R. Killian Jr., dictated letters to Ann Whitman, his personal secretary, conferred for 45 minutes with Vice President Nixon, then worked for a while on miscellaneous matters.

All that was against the background of the announcement by tht President's doctors Nov. 26 that his illness would require several weeks of rest and "substantially decreased activity."

Asked then how the President looked and felt when he finally called it quits late Tuesday, Hagerty said: "He looked perfectly natural and quite chipper."

The press secretary announced Eisenhower plans to spend another long and restful weekend at his Gettysburg, Pa., farm.

Red Unions Take Over 3 Dutch Firms

JAKARTA (AP) — Communist-led trade unio. today took over a third major Dutch enterprise and set a watch on three leading Dutch banks in the downtown business section.

A government source said that the Cabinet had held a special session to discuss ways of preventing a wholesale take-over of Dutch firms by the unions. But so far the government was moving cautiously.

The Sobsi Trade Union Federation informed the Jacobson Van Den Berg Trading Co. at noon that its members were taking control.

Officials of the company, the third largest Dutch firm in Indonesia, protested that the union action was without authority.

Union leaders who demanded control of the trading firm said, however, that they had received no instructions from the government not to take charge.

Workers seized the offices of the KPM Royal Netherlands Shipping Lines and the Royal Interocean Lines Tuesday, raising the red flag of the Sobsi Union Federation and sending Dutch employes home without their cars.

A spokesman commented that the Dutch Embassy is "completely in the dark as to the Indonesian government's future intentions."

Israel Delays Convoy During Jordan Fuss

JERUSALEM (AP) — Israel today held up dispatch of a disputed convoy through Jordanian territory as U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold and Prime Minister David Ben-Gurion held a long private conference.

Refusal by Jordan to let gasoline-carrying convoys through the Israeli-held Mt. Scopus enclave, one of the causes of Hammarskjold's Middle East visit, continued despite his talks Monday in Amman with Jordanian officials. The secretary general began conversations with Israeli officials here Tuesday.

Jordan turned back the last convoy two weeks ago because it carried nine drums of gasoline. Jordanian officials charged the gas would be used by Israeli police and caretaker forces on demilitarized Mt. Scopus in connection with fortification work prohibited by the Palestine armistice.

Israel denied that any military work was involved. Her spokesmen said the gasoline would be used to run an electric generator.

"There are no fortifications in the Israel Mt. Scopus sector," an Israeli spokesman said today. The area involved is about 900 by 400 feet in size, east of the Jordan-occupied old city of Jerusalem. The hill is the site of the Hadassah Hospital, Hebrew University and a 500,000-volume library, all inoperative but maintained by Israeli caretakers.

Roosevelt Chuckles At Shiek's Offer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Rep. James Roosevelt (D-Calif) says he has received about 2,000 letters giving advice since he mentioned an offer by an Arab shiek to marry his mother, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt. The sheik now has 39 wives.

"Some said if I couldn't get her married off to that shiek to try another," Roosevelt said.

"Others asked why I should want to break it up—that if it was true love it should blossom.

Teamsters About To Receive Final Axing from AFL-CIO

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) —The AFL-CIO Executive Council gathered today to recommend a formal expulsion of the Teamsters Union, which claims a tenth of the federation's 15 million members.

The council was acting on corruption charges developed in months of hearings before the Senate Rackets Committee.

It also was expected to vote expulsion recommendations for the Bakery, Laundry and Distillery Workers unions, similarly involved in charges of corruption.

The recommendations will go to the AFL-CIO convention convening here Thursday.

Expulsion of the four unions, with about 1¾ million members, was mapped by AFL-CIO President George Meany as a demonstration that organized labor can deal effectively with racketeering in labor's ranks.

Meany and other AFL-CIO chiefs hoped it would help them stave off threatened punitive legislation from Congress and warn leaders of other unions against mulcting union funds.

The Teamsters, Bakers and Laundry Workers already are under AFL-CIO suspension and their expulsion was regarded as only a formality.

Meany and the AFL-CIO council have on a number of occasions said that for the Teamsters to avoid expulsion the union must oust James R. Hoffa, Teamsters president-elect; Dave Beck, the union's retiring president; and others named in Senate hearings.

The Distillery Workers Union is under AFL-CIO probation, but ousted leaders of the union recently took over their offices again and the union is expected to face renewed AFL-CIO ouster proceedings.

In another preliminary to the start of federation convention sessions, the AFL-CIO Building and Construction Trades Department planned to act today at its seperate convention on resolutions calling for quitting the federation unless jurisdictional troubles are settled.

WHILE THE 72-foot-tall rocket, slender and graceful stood white and sere in its launching stand, excitement swirled about it. Cape Canaveral, closed to all outsiders, blazed with floodlights.

The Navy has been assigned the responsibility for launching six or more small scientific satellites during the International Geophysical Year now in progress.

The Vanguard consists of a ton of metal and 10 tons of fuel.

Its first stage is 44 feet long and almost 4 feet wide, its second 31 feet long and 32 inches in diameter, and its third 5 feet long and 18 inches in diameter. Because parts of the stages fit within each other, their cumulative length is only 72 feet.

The General Electric rocket motor of the first stage, using liquid oxygen and kerosene, was designed to produce 27,000 pounds of thrust, to burn for about 2½ minutes, and to take the device to an altitude of 35 miles and to a speed of 3,700 miles an hour.

The second stage, with an Aerojet General rocket fueled with nitric acid and unsymmetrical dimethyl hydrazine, has an assigned thrust of 7,500 pounds and a burning time of two minutes. It was to burn out at an altitude of 130 miles and a speed of 9,000 miles an hour, and then to coast to an altitude of 300 miles before separating from the third stage while traveling parallel to the earth.

The Grand Central rocket motor of the third stage would give the satellite its spurt to orbital speed of 18,000 miles an hour, and then would gently separate from the sphere. The five-foot long magnesium shell of the third stage, painted white to reflect the sun, will orbit along behind the aluminum ball. Some say it will outlive the tiny satellite.

CHAPTER ONE
A PRINCE IS BORN

Once upon a time, many years ago, there lived three little men named Noodle, Tiggle and Livingstone.

They were only six inches tall! They lived in a house made of half a watermelon rind and they fed on fresh boiled buttercups and acorn stew.

The watermelon house was also a workshop, for the three little men were good fairy wizards. They spent their entire lives making magic potions.

Three of their potions were Strength, Courage and Wisdom.

Whenever a prince was born in the Kingdom of Mitzenpoo, Noodle, Tiggle and Livingston would go, in invisible cloaks, to the palace and, before the prince was nine hours old, they would sprinkle him with their magic potions of Strength, Courage and Wisdom.

No one ever saw the three little men but it never failed that the princes of Mitzenpoo grew up to be kings of great courage, strength and wisdom. This was the way it had been for 300 years and, as a result, Mitzenpoo was the happiest and fairest kingdom in the land.

Now, by and by, it happened that there was a king of Mitzenpoo who had no sons. This made the king very sad for he was getting old and he needed a son to help him care for his people.

The king wished and wished for a son and finally his wish came true: a son was born.

While the whole kingdom rejoiced, Noodle, Tiggle and Livingstone were in a frenzy. It had been so long since a prince was born that when the three little men looked in their cupboard they found that their potions of Strength, Courage and Wisdom had completely dried up.

"We must make new batches!" groaned Tiggle. "And quickly, for the prince is already four hours old and if we wait past nine hours the magic will not work."

"Oh, dear! Oh, dear!" moaned Livingstone. "This rushing makes me so nervous. If only we had known a prince was on the way!"

"Never mind," said Noodle. "We must do the best we can. I'll read the recipe and you, Tiggle, measure the ingredients and you, Livingston, do the mixing."

So they worked and the hours flew by one, two, three until the new prince was eight hours old.

Noodle's eyes were red from reading in ancient cook books. Tiggle was cross-eyed from measuring a thousand ingredients. And Livingstone was spattered from head to toes with all he'd spilled. But ready, in three separate bowls, were the three potions: Strength, Courage, Wisdom.

While the others cleaned themselves Noodle measured out several drops from the bowl of Strength. He moved that bowl to the floor to show he had used it and then he raced away to the palace.

Tiggle came next and seeing the bowl on the floor he thought Noodle had put it there for him. So he, too, took several drops from the bowl of Strength and raced away to the palace.

Then came Livingston. "Ah," he said. "They've left the last bowl on the floor for me!" Carefully he measured out several drops of Strength before he, too, raced off to the palace.

Each little man stole into the palace nursery and sprinkled his magic potion on the sleeping prince. Then, their task done, they met again in the watermelon house."

"What a prince this boy will be!" cried Noodle. "I gave him a truly whopping sprinkling of Strength."

"Strength?" shouted Tiggle. "Why I myself gave him from the bowl of Strength."

"Great heavens!" wailed Livingstone. 'I did the same!"

Aghast, they stared at one another.

Finally Noodle whispered, "He'll be the strongest boy in the world!"

"A strong boy with no courage," groaned Tiggle.

"And no wisdom," cried Livingstone.

And the three little men broke into sobs of grief.

Pills New Driving Hazard

As if the notion's motorists did not have enough hazards to overcome in modern traffic, there is evidence of a growing belief in motor clubs and safety organizations that various medicines now available to the public have side effects which are detrimental to safe driving.

Chief among the medicines believed to produce such effects are the tranquilizing drugs. In an effort to reach some definite conclusion on this, two national organizations—the National Safety Council and the American Automobile Association — are conducting independent surveys.

Officials of the National Institute for Mental Health have listed some of the after-effects which may occur from the use of tranquilizers. They are drowsiness, reduced reaction time and impairment of physical coordination. In addition, there is the possibility that the elimination of anxiety from the driver's mind may be so complete as to deprive him of the caution needed for safe driving.

The side-effects listed are common to many of the modern drugs, but the AAA and the Safety Council have focused their concern on the tranquilizers because of the widespread use of these drugs. It is estimated that 60 million prescriptions will be written and $200 million spent for tranquiliers in 1957—nearly twice as much as last year.

Admitting the inconclusiveness of present knowledge of the effects of tranquilizers on driving, the National Safety Council nevertheless warns:

"While awaiting more conclusive evidence from the scientists, public officials should stay alert to this new influence on the American traffic safety scene, observe carefully any apparent relationship to accidents or violations, and take whatever medico-legal steps are finally indicated to control any harmful influence on the accident rate."

Science has found, in the tranquilizers, a powerful weapon in the fight against mental illness. It may also have found a new way for drivers to commit suicide on the highways.

WASHINGTON (AP)—"No, Rover, I can never marry you," sobbed Mimi, the beautiful French poodle. "Go, and never darken my kennel door again."

"Hah!" declaimed the spurned suitor. "I'm not good enough for you, eh? You think I can't buy you the chopped sirloin you're accustomed to!"

"It's not that, Rover," Mimi wept. "I'd share my last bone with you. I'd rob trash cans with you. But—"

"I see it all now," said the male dog darkly. "It's because I'm a beagle, isn't it? You think of me as an inferior, just because you won that silly best-of-show ribbon!"

"No, no!" Mimi's protests rose to an hysterical yelp. "I have nothing against you at all, Rover. If I were to marry anyone—but I can't, you see. Not while—" A delicate blush undercoated her powder-gray muzzle. Then she confessed:

"It's the puppies I'm thinking of, Rover. Do you think dogs have any right to bring puppies into a world like this? When they might be packed in a Sputnik and shot out into space at any moment?"

"Why, you silly goose," he laughed. "What a thing to be afraid of. One dog in all this world has been sputniked. The chances that one of ours might be—it's simply fantastic."

"These are fantastic times," Mimi reminded him. "Who knows how many sputniks there may be? I—I'm sorry, Rover. I just can't take the chance."

Rover licked his lips meditatively.

"All right, suppose it happened," he said. "Suppose one of our pups was the first dog to reach the moon. Wouldn't you be proud?"

"I'd be scared to death," said Mimi, weeping again.

"Dogs on the moon," Rover mused. "We could run the place to suit ourselves. We'd have it all organized by the time people got there. We'd make them our slaves. I can hear us now. 'Here, human. Roll over, human. Jump through this hoop, human.' "

"And we'd give them silly names," chimed in Mimi excitedly, pawing away her tears. "Names like Mimi and Rover—"

"We'd feed them our table scraps!"

"We'd hire people-catchers to put them in concentration camps if they didn't have people-tags on their collars!"

Raptly, Mimi and Rover gazed upon each other.

"Name the day," growled Rover softly. "You and I may not see this bright tomorrow. But our puppies . . . and our puppies' puppies.

"Yes — oh, yes, Rover," whispered Mimi before they scampered to obedience. "I'll marry you. The future belongs to us!"

The Half-States of the West

By George Sokolsky

The Southern States may be angered because the Federal Government continues, 92 years after the end of the Civil War, to interfere in their internal affairs. Compared, however, with what goes on in some of the Western States, the South is treated leniently, for in the West, the Federal Government has been grabbing more and more of the states, taking land, water, interfering with education and control of minerals.

When these Western States came into the Union, they thought that they were joining up as sovereign and equal states, but they made a mistake. They are apparently only half states. I came across this passage in the 1957 message of Gov. Milward L. Simpson of Wyoming:

". . . We are denied the political and economic independence enjoyed in the older states which were granted their lands and resources. Our citizens must subscribe to the dictates of some 59 Federal land management agencies! The Congress of the United States provided for 'admission into the Union on an equal footing with the original states.' The original states retained their lands, minerals, forests and other natural resources. If we had ours, or if the Federal Government paid the same taxes on its proportion of our lands withheld, we could effect great tax reductions for our people and provide for better service."

Despite all this, Wyoming maintains an extraordinary university which has one of the really great geology schools in all the world. Of this university, Gov. Simpson said:

". . None of us want to see too strict legislative control of our university. The evils of that are apparent in other states now reaping the whirlwind of such philosophy. Wyoming University has always been singularly unfettered in this regard. That accounts for its unprecedented advancement and high standing among the American universities. . ."

Some time ago, there was considerable talk in Washington of doing something to improve the relations between the Federal Government and the states and one of the President's numerous administrative assistants was appointed to look after such matters.

What has become of these good intentions is not evident. For it does seem that when the Federal Government owns about half the land of a state, all of which is removed from state taxes, that state is not likely to have ample funds to do its necessary work.

We are all in favor of the conservation of national resources and the existence of forest reserves and of such a natural phenomenon as Yellowstone Park. But precisely how much of the land of a state does the Federal Government need to take? In one matter alone, the Pelton Dam, the State of Wyoming claims that it loses about $20,000,000 a year in revenue.

If the Federal Government absorbs the revenue of a state, where is the state to get any money except from the domineering bureaucrats who sit comfortably in Washington?

As one reads the messages of Western governors, it is possible to realize how pressing is Federal intereference in the affairs of their states and how little can be done about it. We are indeed a large country and the East does not know the West and California is a place all by itself, far off as though it were a different world. And the Florida Keys seem to be even more distant. But it is all the United States.

I can recall my first visit to a part of Montana where the Missouri River, or was it the Mississippi, looked like a tiny mountain stream. Sheep moved about the hills and Basques tended the sheep. Was I in the United States?

These Western States are so different from the Eastern, that one thinks of them only for their scenic magnificence until something comes up like a battle over the use of the water of great rivers.

Wyoming came home to me because of something much closer, namely that Columbia University, which my son attends, sends some of its geology students to the University of Wyoming to improve their education. It is a startling fact that the Wyoming Science Camp is about 30 years old and has an international reputation in its particular fields. Such an experience for a New York parent is startling.

What? Is there really so much West of the Hudson River? What a really small place New York is compared to the United States!

BERNARD BARUCH says, "If ever there was a true wizard of Wall street, it was James R. Keene." Keene, known in his day as "The Silver Fox," came to New York from the Pacific Coast in the 1870s, was instrumental in floating the stock that launched the United States Steel corporation; his manipulations, conducted for J. P. Morgan, disposed of a billion dollar issue without upsetting the market — and, indeed, nobody who bought those original steel shares ever had cause to regret it.

Keene was a bull all his life. "You don't see any Fifth avenue mansions built by bears," he liked to point out. Asked why he continued speculating in stocks after he had amassed a fortune, Keene replied, "Why does a dog chase his thousandth rabbit? All life is a speculation. The spirit of speculation is born with men."

Relax for Better Health

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

Probably no illness is as common as those that are induced emotionally. In fact, it has been said that out of 1,000 illnesses, those brought on by emotions are as common as all the other 999 added together.

You dress warmly in cold weather to avoid colds, you take various other precautions to protect yourself against other diseases. So why not guard against emotional illness?

There is a one-word prescription which will go a long way in helping you avoid such an illness. That word is "relax."

However, it's one thing to advise a person to relax and quite another to help him carry it out. But Miss Jane S. Weir, a staff nurse for the National Safety Council, which has headquarters in Chicago, has come up with a seven-point program which, I believe, will help you.

Her recommendations on how you can relax to prevent accumulation of small tensions are:

1. Get up 15 minutes earlier than necessary in the morning. Take time for an extra cup of coffee or another glass of milk. Even dusting the coffee table is an excellent way to start the day.

2. Take some light reading along with you as you commute to work. Better still, close your eyes and just rest during the ride.

3. Disassociate your mind from work during the lunch hour. Take time to go for a walk, play a game of cards or just rest at your desk or workbench.

4. Walk, don't run, for buses, street cars and trains. You may miss one, but so what! Those extra five minutes won't mean much to you anyway.

5. Eat your meals leisurely, free from emotional stress.

6. Take things easy immediately before going to bed. Give your body a chance to slow down.

7. Keep irritating thoughts out of your mind at bedtime. A warm glass of milk probably will help you sleep better.

Actually, it's very easy to relax. It's pleasant, too. Try it; it's good medicine.

MADISON, Wis. (AP)—A radio-telephone hookup has enabled a Norwegian working in the Antarctic to apply for admission to the University of Wisconsin Graduate School.

Because the next mail boat doesn't leave his outpost until next February, Olav Loken, about 26, decided to call Prof. Kirk Stone of the Wisconsin geography department.

Loken got in touch with a ham radio operator in Wayzata, Minn. The Minnesota man put Prof. Stone on the line and Loken made oral application for admission to the school.

Question and Answer

C. J.: I am going to take an ocean trip shortly, but I am afraid of getting seasick. Can you suggest any preventive?

Answer: There are certain contributory factors, such as constipation and the absence of fresh air, which will cause seasickness. On ship, diet should be simple and the bowel movements kept regular. Also, a drug such as dramamine is helpful. However, it is best to consult your doctor before using drugs.

WASHINGTON (AP)—This is an ABC on the American dilemma about sharing atomic weapons secrets with allies.

It began in 1946 when this country had a monopoly on atomic development and Congress hoped to keep it that way as long as possible.

Congress passed the Atomic Energy Act, which since then has tied the President's hands in sharing atomic weapons information.

In all fields except the atomic he is free to decide what information should or shouldn't be shared.

But this country no longer has a monopoly on atomic information. And much, perhaps most, that was secret in 1946 is no longer a secret either from the Russians or from some American allies, especially the British.

Because of the U.S. Atomic Energy Act, the British had to start from scratch in making their weapons. Like the Russians, they eventually made them.

Because they were shut off from American information, they had to duplicate what was already known or done here.

Thus years of brains, energy and money were lost. If the two countries had been sharing, the West now might be far ahead of the Russians.

The Allied nations surpass the Soviets in combined brains and resources. The amazing Soviet progress in beginning to force this realization on us:

If the West hopes to get ahead, or stay ahead, of the Russians in atomic weapons it will need all the brains and energy it can muster.

It can do so only by sharing far more than this country has revealed to its friends yet.

For this reason the Eisenhower administration is asking Congress to soften the Atomic Energy Act's restrictions and give the President more freedom in deciding what is all right for the Allies to know.

This is an example of the mixed-up rules laid down in the Atomic Energy Act for the President to do or not to do in sharing information with allies:

1. He can turn over classified information — classified ranges from top secret to merely confidential—on the peaceful uses of atomic energy, provided the allies agree to keep it classified.

2. He cannot divulge to the allies any information about the design or the making of atomic weapons. He can reveal some information on those weapons, such as size, weight and effect, but not if it is believed such information might reveal anything about design or manufacture.

3. He cannot turn over atomic weapons to the allies. For instance, hydrogen bombs would have to be kept at American bases. They must be in American custody.

Yet, it's quite possible French or British troops and airmen could be instructed in using them, provided American officers were present and therefore in possession of the weapons.

4. He can turn over to the allies atomic materials which could be used for military purposes but only if they agree to put them to nonmilitary use.

Pills New Driving Hazard

As if the notion's motorists did not have enough hazards to overcome in modern traffic, there is evidence of a growing belief in motor clubs and safety organizations that various medicines now available to the public have side effects which are detrimental to safe driving.

Chief among the medicines believed to produce such effects are the tranquilizing drugs. In an effort to reach some definite conclusion on this, two national organizations—the National Safety Council and the American Automobile Association — are conducting independent surveys.

Officials of the National Institute for Mental Health have listed some of the after-effects which may occur from the use of tranquilizers. They are drowsiness, reduced reaction time and impairment of physical coordination. In addition, there is the possibility that the elimination of anxiety from the driver's mind may be so complete as to deprive him of the caution needed for safe driving.

The side-effects listed are common to many of the modern drugs, but the AAA and the Safety Council have focused their concern on the tranquilizers because of the widespread use of these drugs. It is estimated that 60 million prescriptions will be written and $200 million spent for tranquilizers in 1957—nearly twice as much as last year.

Admitting the inconclusiveness of present knowledge of the effects of tranquilizers on driving, the National Safety Council nevertheless warns:

"While awaiting more conclusive evidence from the scientists, public officials should stay alert to this new influence on the American traffic safety scene, observe carefully any apparent relationship to accidents or violations, and take whatever medico-legal steps are finally indicated to control any harmful influence on the accident rate."

Science has found, in the tranquilizers, a powerful weapon in the fight against mental illness. It may also have found a new way for drivers to commit suicide on the highways.

Repent at Leisure

CINCINNATI (AP)—It's a woman's privilege to change her mind and a suburban Clifton woman has apparently decided to take full advantage of it.

Mrs. Marion Blankemeyer, 31, has applied for a license to remarry her second husband after being twice divorced from her first mate. She first married Clem Blankemeyer, then divorced him to marry Charles Mason. She then divorced Mason to remarry Blankemeyer, then divorced Blankemeyer a second time and now plans to remarry Mason.

Metals Output Dip Seen as Trend Marker

U.S. Economy Judged By How Miners Sell Their Vital Products

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP) — Metals are basic to and a thermometer for a large part of the nation's economy. Reduced output today is looked upon as recording a slight deterioration in the general health.

At the same time metal producers are regarded as a barometer since new orders reveal the plans of manufacturers and builders for some time into the future.

Declining steel orders at this time are caused by three things: Reduced production by the manufacturers themselves, a wide tendency to live off inventories, and, to a lesser degree, increasing imports.

The American Iron and Steel Institute forecasts this week's steel output at 1,843,000 tons. This is the lowest since August 1956 when the industry was getting over a strike. Or, if you ignore strike periods, it's the lowest since the Christmas holiday week of three years ago.

About 30 per cent of the industry's steel making capacity appears to be idle. This isn't the institute's figure, since it bases percentage figures on capacity at the start of this year. Several million more tons have been added since then.

Idled mills have led to a look at the import situation. Europe, and especially West Germany, has made big strides in rebuilding and expanding its steel industry.

For example, at a time when American companies are reporting a drop in sales, Phoenix-Rheinrohr A. G. of Duesseldorf, West Germany, reports that in its fiscal year, ending Sept. 30, its sales increased 16 per cent to 388 million dollars. Thirty per cent of sales volume was accounted for by exports, while the previous year export's share was 26.8 per cent.

And consumption seems to be running higher than the output of domestic mills would indicate. Iron Age, metalworking trade weekly, says today actual use of steel here this year will set a record. This will be because fabricators and manufacturers are dipping heavily into inventories.

Part of this is a desire to trim down to what the manufacturer's own outlook seems to call for. art, at least in late summer and fall, was to take advantage of steel bought before the price hike July 1.

But the weekly point out a tax reason involved. Some government units impose a tax on inventory on hand at the end of the year. Users, especially the smaller companies, are getting them as low as possible this month.

But the barometer that Wall Street is watching most carefully is the declining orders the steel mills report. Even the reduced output is outstripping incoming orders and most steel companies report shrinking backlogs.

Ohio Idle Claims Hit 3-Year High

COLUMBUS (AP)—The number of continuing claims for unemployment compensation has risen to the highest figure in almost three years, the Bureau of Unemployment Compensation reports

Continuing claims as of the week ended Nov. 30 stood at 80,498, the BUC said. This is the highest number of claimants since January-February of 1955 when an average of 90,000 persons were drawing benefits.

The BUC also announced that benefits paid out for the first 10 months of the year totaled $66,083,938, an increase of 24.5 per cent over the same period in 1956.

'GOLDEN CONNIE'—Here are the front and reverse sides of the new gold coins which the Munich, Germany, state mint will soon put into production. The official title of the coin is the "Konrad Adenauer Gold Medal," already nicknamed "Golden Connie." A portrait of the chancellor is on the front.

Yule Gifts For Father: Tough Task

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

What do men want for Christmas?

Well, the things they don't want are neckties, cuff links, gag presents meant to be funny and anything that has to be exchanged.

These facts came to light as a result of a recent survey conducted by a New York business woman, Eleanor Kairalla, for the guidance of some of her retailing friends and, incidentally, for her own reference. She hired a group of college boys to buttonhole men at railroad stations and other public places and question them about their gift preference.

Among the concrete requests, as listed in the survey, top of the list is an automobile.

The boys also wouldn't mind a gift of cash — any amount.

If the little woman feels she really must give him a gift of clothing, then he wants it in the form of a gift certificate, so he can do his own choosing.

High on the list of male preferences are such things as new TV sets, Hi-fi sets and sports equipment.

The golfer wants golf sweaters, new matched clubs, maybe a membership to a swank golf club.

The fisherman wants good rods, reels, waders and such.

The hunter wants the newest and costliest gun on the market.

And, the survey reveals, there's always one gift sure of a male welcome. When in doubt, give liquor.

Prosecution Due To Finish Case Today in Lima Trial

LIMA, Ohio (AP)—The prosecution indicated it will conclude its case today in the first degree murder trial of Ralph Forsythe, 42, charged with the alleged slaying of Charles Conner Aug. 10.

Prosecutor Anthony Bowers said he had only one or two more witnesses and thought their testimony would be completed by noon.

Tuesday he called five witnesses to the stand, including the third and last witness to the alleged shooting in the Forsythe kitchen during a birthday party for Conner. Conner's body has never been found.

James Fitzgerald of Lima told the court he was sitting at the same table with Conner when Forsythe entered the room with a gun. He said Forsythe did not say a word and Fitzgerald said he thought Forsythe was kidding until the shot was fired and Conner slumped forward.

He said he left immediately.

Lima police chief Donald Miller explained the investigation of the murder, but said he was not personally involved until about a month later.

He said he and 10 other men searched the Cadiz area for four days after the alleged slaying was linked with that town.

Another witness, Sharon Bresler, superintendent of the Lima Water Department, testified that the degree of hardness in the water wrung out of the floorboard mat of Forsythe's truck matched that of a well in a Cadiz park.

The defense objected to the entering of the jar of water as evidence but after nearly an hour of argument Judge Moran B. Jenkins overruled the objection.

However, he cautioned the jury to weigh carefully this evidence because the jar had been handled by four policemen and because it is unselaed.

The last two witnesses called Tuesday were Conner's father and sister. His father, Charles H. Conner, said he had last seen his son the day before the alleged shooting took place. He said he arranged a birthday party for Conner Sunday, Aug. 11. He also told the court his son was not the type to leave town without any explanation.

His sister, Mrs. Charles Cunningham of Lima, said she last saw her brother on Aug. 7 and verified the plans for the party.

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Circumstances led my natural mother to give me up for adoption some 30 years ago. I had a very happy life not knowing that I was an adopted son.

However, when I did find out about the adoption eventually, it made very little difference to me. I loved my adopted family very much and was content not knowing my real mother's name or whereabouts. To me she was a stranger who, if I let her, would intrude in my family life.

Now I am married and the father of two lovely and wonderful children. Recently I received word that my real mother was near death and had been trying desperately to reach me. I understand that she was unmarried when I was born and cared nothing about me, which may, or may not, be true.

I called her on the telephone and my wife and I sent friendly letters, enclosing pictures of our children—all this within the last week. Now we wonder if this was right? We have no proof that she is ill, nor do we know what she wants. She is on public relief but hasn't asked our financial help yet.

If there are two sides to her story, we have heard only one. Should we continue writing and find out for ourselves, which may cause heartache? Or should we stop this correspondence? My adopted mother is still living and I wouldn't want to hurt her for the world. Above all, we don't want our children tinged with this woman's faults, if any.

I am not really concerned about her; but I wouldn't let even a stranger die without granting a favor within my power. I have no sentiment for her except pity—if pity is needed.

P. W.

DEAR P.W.: The fact that you didn't back off suspiciously, biding your time, reckoning the risk, etc., is altogether to your credit, I think, after you got word that your real mother was dying, and trying desperately to reach you before the end.

Your prompt wholehearted rejoinder in calling by phone and sending letters, enclosing snapshots of the children, was right, I am sure. It gave indirect testimony to your moral excellence.

It was a tribute not only to the stuff of your natural heritage (since one can't make a silk purse of a sow's ear); but also it spoke well of your adopting parents—who set you a lifelong example of generous loving consideration, I take it.

In short, you are a nice person and a good man, obviously—something for which your natural mother may rejoice. Whatever the circumstances that impelled her to give you for adoption, now she has evidence that this choice was sound—in surrendering you to opportunities that produced fine character. So don't kick yourself for acting as you did in that instance.

As for what to do next — now that you've shown that your heart is in the right place, a pause for examination of the situation is probably appropriate. I see no reason to pursue a close correspondence. But it would seem sensible and responsible to try to discover, if possible without probing and prying, just what are the facts of the case at present.

Whatever the truth, it can't hurt you or your children, if you aren't afraid; if you have sound values and self-respect; and if you abide by right standards of conduct in relation to family and society.

Since your natural mother has intruded into your family circle, filing claim to your consideration, it is probably good judgment and fair play to let your adopting mother know about this. By sharing the jolt with her, you make clear that she is "in" on all that affects you, that nothing and nobody gets between.

Well meant efforts to conceal the exchange, supposedly in kindness to her, might leak out and cause her to feel deceived and betrayed, and angry and hurt. Just be careful, conscientious and above-board, with the several adults immediately concerned.

Mrs. Shane Presents Paper On Alaska for Monday Club

Mrs. E. S. Shane presented a paper before Monday Club members entitled "A-Lay-ek-sa", a word meaning the great land and which was later contracted to Alaska.

Mrs. Shane spoke of several misconceptions Americans seemed to have concerning this most northern possession.

"In order to see the midnight sun," she said, "It is necessary to travel 120 miles north of Fairbanks into the Artic Circle. Even then it is best seen from a plane for the mountain ranges tend to obscure it".

Mrs. Shane explained another common American belief was that the Eskimos lived in ice houses "Igloo". She said, "means building. And the word refers to a house of earth and wood. The Eskimo may occasionally build a snow house for emergency use on the trail but never for a permanent dwelling".

An expedition was dispatched by the Russian Czar, Peter the Great, and Alaska was discovered May, 1741 by Vitus Bering, a native of Denmark serving in the Russian army.

Mrs. Shane said that members of the expedition returned to Russia with a cargo of valuable furs. The next phase of exploration was the work of fur traders and adventurers and was an era of greed and robbery Later Alexander Baronoff became the first governor of the new colony. He established trade relations. He founded schools and churches and trading posts.

Following the Crimean War it became evident to Russia that she must sell her American colony or lose it to the British. The American people reacted unfavorably to the purchase. The Great Land was shamefully neglected. "Only the churches," Mrs. Shane reminded her listeners, "gave Alaska any attention. They established schools and missions. It was not until after gold was found that that any laws were passed for governing this territory".

"Now with its stragetic importance it is again a focal point of world interest. Yet it is still a land apart, a rugged A-lay-ek-sa, the Great Land".

Mrs. Bishop Given, vice-president was in charge of the short business session at which resolutions of respect were read for the late Mrs. B. R. Bales.

New members, Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh and Mrs. Homer Reber were added to the roster.

Appointment Of Judges OKd

63 Pct. of Lawyers Approve New Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A system of appointing rather than electing Ohio's top judges has the support of 63.7 per cent of the lawyers who replied to a recent Ohio Bar Assn. poll.

Results of the poll in which 4,817 of about 9,000 bar association members voted were announced today by A. C. Schapiro, Portsmouth, the group's president.

Such a proposal, to be effective, must first be approved by Ohio voters in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Appointment of judges first was proposed about 20 years ago by an Ohio Committee for Judicial Reform, but the plan met stern opposition then and has languished since.

Schapiro said that of the attorneys voting, 3,067 favored the proposal and 1,750 opposed it.

He said the decision on whether to ask the next Legislature to put the amendment on the ballot or whether to seek enough signatures on petitions to get the question before the voters by the initiative process will be up to the bar group's executive committee.

This is how the system would work:

The governor first would name a 10-member citizens committee to make recommendations of judicial candidates to him. The committee would be made up of five lawyers and five laymen, equally divided among Democrats and Republicans. Committee members would serve staggered terms.

From the persons recommended by the committee, the governor would appoint members of the Ohio Supreme Court and judges of the state's 10 appellate courts.

Each appointee would serve a six-year term. Then, he would run for another term on his record. If the voters rejected his bid for another term, the governor would make a new appointment.

Champ Steer Due To Fly To Moscow

CLEVELAND (AP) — PS Troubador, the champion steer who recently completed a 100,000-mile tour in his private rail car, is scheduled to fly to Moscow next May for the 1958 Soviet All-Union Agricultural Exhibition.

Troubador was bred on the Acadia farms of Cyrus S. Eaton, who received the Soviet invitation while at the 1957 International Livestock Exhibition in Chicago.

Troubador was judged grand champion steer at last year's International Exhibition and was sold for an all-time record price of $20.50 a pound. The Greenbrief Hotel of West Virginia paid $20,397.50 for the steer.

The hotel is operated by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, of which Eaton is board chairman. The C&O provided a specially equipped baggage car for Troubador's tour.

The steer was invited last summer by President Eisenhower to visit the President's farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

Many millions of persons have seen Troubador on television or on movie screens. He appeared on TV when Edward R. Murrow interviewed Eaton on the show "Person to Person." Eaton's farm is at Northfield, Ohio, north of Akron.

The PS in the steer's name stands for Pennsylvania State University, which purchased the steer's mother, Acadia Queen of Beauty II, at a sale in 1955.

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP)—A priest who doubles as a ham radio operator has been cited by the American Radio Rtlay League for his part in handling emergency messages during a blizzard.

The Rev. Fidelis V. Filipek, chaplain at St. Vincent's Catholic Hospital here, received the "public service" certificate after extensive investigation by the league.

Father Filipek was chaplain at St. John's Hospital, Huron, S. D., when a blizzard struck the Dakotas and Nebraska early in April of 1956. He spent nearly all his time during a two-day period keeping in contact with other operators relaying messages to emergency personnel. Regular communication lines were down at the time.

NATO Officers' Wives Tell Favorite Foreign Dishes

WASHINGTON (AP)—Exotic dishes from Danish abelkage to Dutch zuurkool, including King Paul of Greece's fish rice and President Eisenhower's beef stew, are among recipes from the 15 North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) nations featured in a new cookbook "The Best of Taste."

Compiled by wives of officers on the staff of NATO's Supreme Allied Commander, Atlantic, Adm. Gerauld Wright, USN, the handsomely illustrated, 256-page, cookbook was launched with the fanfare of a Hollywood premiere at a reception given by the SACLANT staff Wives and the American Newspaper Women's Club.

Royalties from the book — already selling like hotcakes—go for international scholarships for students to do research about NATO and allied subjects.

Besides the king's dish, the book contains a favorite of Queen Juliana of the Netherlands and of Grand Duchess Charlotte of Luxembourg. Vincent Massey, governor general of Canada, contributed "Les Oeufs Chasseur," composed of Madiera sauce, a pheasant, a puree of chestnuts, fresh eggs and truffles. Also from Canada is a dinner menu which provides that everything including dessert can be oven-baked in a 350 degrees temperature for one hour.

From Iceland comes a favorite of President Asgeir Asgeirsson, fish pudding with filling, a recipe for ptarmigans (birds) and a cheese dish made of roquefort, sharp and camembert cheeses, gelatin, onion, paprika and green coloring. Belgium offers "wild boar chops," Norway "yellow herring salad". There's a "tuna eye canape" from Denmark, "soused herring" from England, "Shrimp turnover," from Portugal, "wedding soup" from Turkey and "seafood gumbo a la New Orleans," from the United States.

Adm. Wright, whose wife headed the committee producing the book, says in a foreword that NATO wives are working like their husbands "for defense of the sea, for unity of NATO, for preservation of our friendships, for mutual understanding and tolerance of each for all." They believe, he says, that "the appeal to the mind and heart via the palate—a NATO cookbook — will contribute one small iota to the unity, understanding and friendship among the peoples and nations of our great alliance."

Shelby Depot Said Victim of 'Missile Age'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ohioans protesting the gradual closure of Shelby Air Force Depot were told by Sen. Bricker (R-Ohio) today the move is part of Air Force plans for the missile age.

Some 200 persons in the Shelby, Ohio, area claimed the Air Force was practicing false economy in its program to shut down the 2,800-employe facility between now and July 1, 1961.

However, Bricker stated in a letter to these constituents:

"Heretofore the emphasis on closing Shelby and other depots has been placed on saving money. It now appears that the emphasis should have been placed, instead, in a change in the method of supplying the Air Force as the Air Force plans for the missile age."

Bricker said he has discussed the situation with Asst. Air Force Secretary Dudley C. Sharp and has been assured that the closure is not being made for lack of money but for improved efficiency.

The Shelby depot has been the biggest storage center in the world for Air Force tires and tubes.

During the coming year, some 1,400 employes at Shelby will be transferred, if they are willing to accept, to depots at Mobile, Ala., Warner Robins, Ga., and Middletown, Pa.

Electric Industry Opportunities High

COLUMBUS (AP) — The electric utility industry offers a wealth of exciting and satisfying work for young graduate engineers, John K. Davis of the Toledo Edison Co. told a conference of engineering professors here.

Davis told the conference, sponsored by eight investor-owned electric utilities in Ohio, that a recent study of utility companies shows 47 per cent of executive offices hold engineering degrees, although only five per cent of all employes are engineers.

Lima BUC Manager Given Suspension

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio Civil Service Commission says John W. Saunders has been suspended for 25 days from his position as office manager at the Lima office of the Bureau of unemployment Compensation. The suspension became effective Monday.

Saunders has been in BUC work for about 19 years, according to Blaine Sickles, administrative assistant in the Columbus office. Sickles said Saunders is accused of poor management practices.

Appointment Of Judges OKd

63 Pct. of Lawyers Approve New Plan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A system of appointing rather than electing Ohio's top judges has the support of 63.7 per cent of the lawyers who replied to a recent Ohio Bar Assn. poll.

Results of the poll in which 4,817 of about 9,000 bar association members voted were announced today by A. C. Schapiro, Portsmouth, the group's president.

Such a proposal, to be effective, must first be approved by Ohio voters in the form of a constitutional amendment.

Appointment of judges first was proposed about 20 years ago by an Ohio Committee for Judicial Reform, but the plan met stern opposition then and has languished since.

Schapiro said that of the attorneys voting, 3,067 favored the proposal and 1,750 opposed it.

He said the decision on whether to ask the next Legislature to put the amendment on the ballot or whether to seek enough signatures on petitions to get the question before the voters by the initiative process will be up to the bar group's executive committee.

This is how the system would work:

The governor first would name a 10-member citizens committee to make recommendations of judicial candidates to him. The committee would be made up of five lawyers and five laymen, equally divided among Democrats and Republicans. Committee members would serve staggered terms.

From the persons recommended by the committee, the governor would appoint members of the Ohio Supreme Court and judges of the state's 10 appellate courts.

Each appointee would serve a six-year term. Then, he would run for another term on his record. If the voters rejected his bid for another term, the governor would make a new appointment.

Champ Steer Due To Fly To Moscow

CLEVELAND (AP) — PS Troubador, the champion steer who recently completed a 100,000-mile tour in his private rail car, is scheduled to fly to Moscow next May for the 1958 Soviet All-Union Agricultural Exhibition.

Troubador was bred on the Acadia farms of Cyrus S. Eaton, who received the Soviet invitation while at the 1957 International Livestock Exhibition in Chicago.

Troubador was judged grand champion steer at last year's International Exhibition and was sold for an all-time record price of $20.50 a pound. The Greenbrief Hotel of West Virginia paid $20,397.50 for the steer.

The hotel is operated by the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, of which Eaton is board chairman. The C&O provided a specially equipped baggage car for Troubador's tour.

Many millions of persons have seen Troubador on television or on movie screens. He appeared on TV when Edward R. Murrow interviewed Eaton on the show "Person to Person." Eaton's farm is at Northfield, Ohio, north of Akron.

The PS in the steer's name stands for Pennsylvania State University, which purchased the steer's mother, Acadia Queen of Beauty II, at a sale in 1955.

Is There Life Beyond Grave?

Strictly Scientific Answer Given to Gripping Question

Editor's Note: Does biology nurture the hope of immortality? Dr. Selman Waksman, Nobel prize winner for his part in discovering streptomycin and director of Rutgers University's Institute of Microbiology, gives his views in the second of three articles in a series on this abiding human mystery.

By DR. SELMAN A. WAKSMAN

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Before the question—Can life exist after death?—can be answered, either in the affirmative or negative, we must first make certain that we understand what we are discussing. Otherwise, this question could be answered only on the basis of speculative assumptions and generalities that are not subject to any kind of experimental proof.

The answer to this question must also steer clear of religious beliefs and prejudices that are largely in the domain of the theologians. A scientist is conditioned to answer questions only on the basis of facts established through careful observation and subject to actual measurements.

Life is usually defined as a condition or state that characterizes animate or living matter (plants and animals). Living bodies have certain definite properties that differentiate them sharply from nonliving materials. These properties can be summarized briefly as follows:

1. Growth. This is a gradual increase of all the components of living systems, no matter how small and simple or large and complex.

2. Metabolism. This is the capacity of living systems to assimilate food substances and transform them partly into energy and partly into their own cells and tissues.

3. Respiration. This includes both respiration in the presence of oxygen (aerobic state), and the ability of certain cells to live in the absence of oxygen (anaerobic state).

4. Reproduction. This characteristic of life ranges from the simple fission of bacteria and budding of yeasts to the complex sexual reproduction of both lower and higher forms of life. All living creatures have the ability to reproduce their own kind.

5. Adaptation to the environment. This may be a result of spontaneous mutation, of interbreeding between strains and varities, or still other factors. Gradually new forms of life may thus arise that are different from their progenitors. The plant and animal breeder takes full advantage of such properties to create new varieties.

6. Intelligence. Even single-cell organisms often show a rudimentary type of intelligence (such as reactions to heat and other destructive agents), but man has acquired mental processes that enable him to control or at least understand, actually or potentially, virtually all of the activities in the environment with which he is surrounded.

A living organism is said to die when its living functions come to an end. The body ceases to respire, cannot reproduce its own kind, cannot adapt itself to its environment, and all its other functions cease completely. As soon as an organism dies, unless it is preserved by special chemicals or sterlized by dehydration, heat or other means, it is immediately attacked by lower forms of life (bacteria, molds, and worms), which destroy its cells and tissues and transform the cells and tissues of the dead body into those constituent elements (inorganic and gaseous forms) from which the body was originally built up. Thus the microbes keep the cycle of life in constant circulation, whereby the limited supplies of essential nutrients, notably various forms of fixed nitrogen (ammonia, nitrate, humus nitrogen), carbon (gaseous carbon dioxide or carbon in humus), prosphorus, and other elements in lesser concentration, are constantly made available to various forms of life, permitting them to renew themselves constantly.

Whether we deal with dead plant residues in the form of leaves, twigs, and plant stubble, or with animal residues in a state of decomposition (putrefaction), these processes lead to a rapid diminution of the bulk of dead matter, with a corresponding increase of gaseous and mineralized products (ammonia, carbon dioxide, phosphates, sulfates, etc.) These can be measured and their quantity will be found to equal the losses that have occurred in the decomposing body. No wonder that an ancient rabbi, when asked what to do first on a sabbath, "to bury a dead king or feed a hungry dog?," replied: "By all means feed the dog first. Since he is alive, he needs food; the king is dead and there is nothing that can be done about it."

Living processes are primarily characterized by the fact that they can be measured. Even such infinitesimal forms of life as the viruses, which almost border on the inanimate, could be studied long before they were seen even with the highest possible microscopic magnifications. Their multiplication could be determined, their ability to cause specific diseases could be established, and means were developed for combatting them. The somewhat larger forms of life, the unicellular bacteria, have been studied in an even greater variety of ways. Their nutrition, multiplication, adaptation to environment, and many other activities were gradually elucidated. They could now be combatted, if injurious, or encouraged, if they were found to make a valuable contribution to human welfare. The living reactions of still higher forms of life can be measured in a multiplicity of different ways. Even the inexperienced observer can thus tell whether a plant or animal is alive or dead.

Without considering religious and supernatural beliefs, and without considering processes that up to now have never been measured or evaluated, we must conclude that life, at least in a material sense, ceases with death. There is, therefore, only one conclusion that one can reach if one accepts the ancient dictum: "omnia vivum ex vivo," or "all that is living must have originated from living matter." Just as no life can arise spontaneously, so we can hardly assume that life can exist without the commonly recognized reactions characteristic of living systems.

This leaves us with the possibility that "life" after death, in the immaterial form of a soul or spirit, might provide immortality after the cessation of life. All attempts, however, to prove the existence of such spiritual entities by the methods of science have been universally unsuccessful. The scientist is no better equipped than the philosopher or the theologian to answer the problem of an univerifiable form of life, and would be unable to accept any unprovable speculations beyond those necessary for the conduct of experiments and the comprehension of the universe. There seems to be no necessary scientific reason to believe in life after death. Man's natural desire for immortality is not a rational basis for scientific belief, although it remains a compelling factor in religious belief.

Therefore, we must conclude from our stated definitions of life and death, that any belief in life after death is in disagreement with all the accumulated wisdom and knowledge of modern biology.

Landlord Demands Tenant Have Kids

AKRON (AP)—"Must have child," said the classified ad in the Akron Beacon Journal offering a three-room, furnished, second-floor apartment for rent.

Readers apparently couldn't believe what they saw. Owners of the apartment, Mr. and Mrs. George Acquaviva, had a simple reason as to why they specified that the tenants have children when the opposite is usually the case.

The Acquavivas, who live on the first floor of the house near Akron University, explained they have four children and figured that the tenants wouldn't mind the noise if they had children of their own.

The new tenants have two children, aged 6 and 3.

Crippled Mother's Try Fails To Save Tot, 4

CINCINNATI (AP) — A crippled mother's efforts to save her 4-year-old daughter's life turned out to have been futile.

The child, Nancy Cramer, died Tuesday in Children's Hospital of burns suffered Nov. 20.

Corner Herbert P. Lyle said he was told the child's clothing caught fire as she was playing with matches in her home here. Her mother, Mrs. Anna Marie Cramer, beat out the flames with a blanket despite the fact she is confined to a wheel chair because of polio.

Straight 'A' Pupil Types With His Toes

DALLAS (AP) — Ten-year-old Joe Rowe's school record shows he got a straight A average last semester and was doing so well he skipped the fifth grade and went into the sixth this year.

About the only thing unusual is that he types his homework with his toes.

He has to. His arms are paralyzed by polio and although he can also write and paint with his toes, he prefers to use a typewriter. He uses the hunt and peck system with his deft toes.

Joe, who hasn't walked in five years, spends his nights in an iron lung. By day he attends school by telephone, watches TV, paints and runs his electric train.

After polio hit, a tutor and his mother helped him through the early grades. At the time, he lived in San Antonio and a telephone hookup to school was arranged for some classes.

When he moved here, it became a regular thing for him to attend Rogers school by phone.

A small sound box is set up in the schoolroom and another in Joe's room. Teachers, standing near the box, conduct classes as usual. At times they fire questions into the box to Joe and Joe answers back.

His teachers, Mrs. Sarah Childress and Mrs. Mary Pool, say he is one of the two sixth-graders who got straight A's last term.

WHAT DOCTORS SAY ABOUT: Better Health Through Knowledge

● Salt ● Thermometers ● Tuberculosis

Q. Do some people use too much salt for good health?

A. They may. Some doctors suspect that use of more salt than the body needs could lead to trouble. Laboratory animals given large amounts of salt develop all sorts of disorders, from kidney disease to high blood pressure. In a certain fishing village in northern Japan, where every one eats salted fish and salted food, almost every person over forty has high blood pressure. A thoughtful doctor recently said that salt is essential for life, but what happens when you consume too much? On every table there is now what was once a prince's ransom of snowy white salt.

Q. Should a "half-minute" fever thermometer be left in the mouth exactly one-half minute?

A. No. Three to five minutes is better. An English doctor tested 25 "half-minute" thermometers on himself while he was a patient in the hospital. There was a much as as 3 degrees difference in his temperature readings at one-half minute and three minutes.

Q. Is tuberculosis inherited?

A. No, tuberculosis is caused by a germ. Although the disease itself is not inherited there is some evidence that weakness or predisposition for TB may be handed down. In tracing tuberculosis in families, two New York doctors found that about 25 per cent of brothers and sisters of TB patients had the disease. In the case of of identical twins, almost 90 per cent of the "co-twins" had TB. This seems to show that a tendency toward the disease is inherited. If this were not the case, then brothers and sisters of TB patients would be about equally susceptible to the disease, regardless of whether they were twins or not.

Is There Life Beyond Grave?

Strictly Scientific Answer Given to Gripping Question

Editor's Note: Does biology nurture the hope of immortality? Dr. Selman Waksman, Nobel prize winner for his part in discovering streptomycin and director of Rutgers University's Institute of Microbiology, gives his views in the second of three articles in a series on this abiding human mystery.

By DR. SELMAN A. WAKSMAN

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Before the question—Can life exist after death?—can be answered, either in the affirmative or negative, we must first make certain that we understand what we are discussing. Otherwise, this question could be answered only on the basis of speculative assumptions and generalities that are not subject to any kind of experimental proof.

The answer to this question must also steer clear of religious beliefs and prejudices that are largely in the domain of the theologians. A scientist is conditioned to answer questions only on the basis of facts established through careful observation and subject to actual measurements.

Life is usually defined as a condition or state that characterizes animate or living matter (plants and animals). Living bodies have certain definite properties that differentiate them sharply from nonliving materials. These properties can be summarized briefly as follows:

1. Growth. This is a gradual increase of all the components of living systems, no matter how small and simple or large and complex.

2. Metabolism. This is the capacity of living systems to assimilate food substances and transform them partly into energy and partly into their own cells and tissues.

3. Respiration. This includes both respiration in the presence of oxygen (aerobic state), and the ability of certain cells to live in the absence of oxygen (anaerobic state).

4. Reproduction. This characteristic of life ranges from the simple fission of bacteria and budding of yeasts to the complex sexual reproduction of both lower and higher forms of life. All living creatures have the ability to reproduce their own kind.

5. Adaptation to the environment. This may be a result of spontaneous mutation, of interbreeding between strains and varities, or still other factors. Gradually new forms of life may thus arise that are different from their progenitors. The plant and animal breeder takes full advantage of such properties to create new varieties.

6. Intelligence. Even single-cell organisms often show a rudimentary type of intelligence (such as reactions to heat and other destructive agents), but man has acquired mental processes that enable him to control or at least understand, actually or potentially, virtually all of the activities in the environment with which he is surrounded.

A living organism is said to die when its living functions come to an end. The body ceases to respire, cannot reproduce its own kind, cannot adapt itself to its environment, and all its other functions cease completely. As soon as an organism dies, unless it is preserved by special chemicals or sterlized by dehydration, heat or other means, it is immediately attacked by lower forms of life (bacteria, molds, and worms), which destroy its cells and tissues and transform the cells and tissues of the dead body into those constituent elements (inorganic and gaseous forms) from which the body was originally built up. Thus the microbes keep the cycle of life in constant circulation, whereby the limited supplies of essential nutrients, notably various forms of fixed nitrogen (ammonia, nitrate, humus nitrogen), carbon (gaseous carbon dioxide or carbon in humus), prosphorus, and other elements in lesser concentration, are constantly made available to various forms of life, permitting them to renew themselves constantly.

Whether we deal with dead plant residues in the form of leaves, twigs, and plant stubble, or with animal residues in a state of decomposition (putrefaction), these processes lead to a rapid diminution of the bulk of dead matter, with a corresponding increase of gaseous and mineralized products (ammonia, carbon dioxide, phosphates, sulfates, etc.) These can be measured and their quantity will be found to equal the losses that have occurred in the decomposing body. No wonder that an ancient rabbi, when asked what to do first on a sabbath, "to bury a dead king or feed a hungry dog?," replied: "By all means feed the dog first. Since he is alive, he needs food; the king is dead and there is nothing that can be done about it."

Living processes are primarily characterized by the fact that they can be measured. Even such infinitesimal forms of life as the viruses, which almost border on the inanimate, could be studied long before they were seen even with the highest possible microscopic magnifications. Their multiplication could be determined, their ability to cause specific diseases could be established, and means were developed for combatting them. The somewhat larger forms of life, the unicellular bacteria, have been studied in an even greater variety of ways. Their nutrition, multiplication, adaptation to environment, and many other activities were gradually elucidated. They could now be combatted, if injurious, or encouraged, if they were found to make a valuable contribution to human welfare. The living reactions of still higher forms of life can be measured in a multiplicity of different ways. Even the inexperienced observer can thus tell whether a plant or animal is alive or dead.

Without considering religious and supernatural beliefs, and without considering processes that up to now have never been measured or evaluated, we must conclude that life, at least in a material sense, ceases with death. There is, therefore, only one conclusion that one can reach if one accepts the ancient dictum: "omnia vivum ex vivo," or "all that is living must have originated from living matter." Just as no life can arise spontaneously, so we can hardly assume that life can exist without the commonly recognized reactions characteristic of living systems.

This leaves us with the possibility that "life" after death, in the immaterial form of a soul or spirit, might provide immortality after the cessation of life. All attempts, however, to prove the existence of such spiritual entities by the methods of science have been universally unsuccessful. The scientist is no better equipped than the philosopher or the theologian to answer the problem of an univerifiable form of life, and would be unable to accept any unprovable speculations beyond those necessary for the conduct of experiments and the comprehension of the universe. There seems to be no necessary scientific reason to believe in life after death. Man's natural desire for immortality is not a rational basis for scientific belief, although it remains a compelling factor in religious belief.

Therefore, we must conclude from our stated definitions of life and death, that any belief in life after death is in disagreement with all the accumulated wisdom and knowledge of modern biology.

Landlord Demands Tenant Have Kids

AKRON (AP)—"Must have child," said the classified ad in the Akron Beacon Journal offering a three-room, furnished, second-floor apartment for rent.

Readers apparently couldn't believe what they saw. Owners of the apartment, Mr. and Mrs. George Acquaviva, had a simple reason as to why they specified that the tenants have children when the opposite is usually the case.

The Acquavivas, who live on the first floor of the house near Akron University, explained they have four children and figured that the tenants wouldn't mind the noise if they had children of their own.

The new tenants have two children, aged 6 and 3.

Crippled Mother's Try Fails To Save Tot, 4

CINCINNATI (AP) — A crippled mother's efforts to save her 4-year-old daughter's life turned out to have been futile.

The child, Nancy Cramer, died Tuesday in Children's Hospital of burns suffered Nov. 20.

Corner Herbert P. Lyle said he was told the child's clothing caught fire as she was playing with matches in her home here. Her mother, Mrs. Anna Marie Cramer, beat out the flames with a blanket despite the fact she is confined to a wheel chair because of polio.

Joint GOP-Dem Fund Drive In Ohio Reported Studied

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The State Democratic Advisory Committee has been told that the Republican State Finance Committee will consider a proposal Dec. 12 for a joint Democratic-Republican campaign fund-raising endeavor.

Samuel L. Abrams of Cleveland announced this move Monday night at the newly formed Democratic committee's meeting at the Deshler-Hilton Hotel here.

Abrams explained that contributions would be divided equally between the parties unless donations were earmarked. He said the plan would permit contributions by people who did not want to be identified with either party and would help eliminate the disparity of funds raised by the parties individually.

The Cleveland advertising man said he had discussed the proposal with industrialist Cyrus Eaton Jr. of Cleveland and William Stevenson, president of Oberlin College.

In action earlier Monday, State Sen. Joseph W. Bartuntk of Cleveland, Senate minority leader, called for a draft-Lausche-for-governor movement.

Bartunek said: "There is one sure guy who could win the governor's seat in the primary and general election. That is Lausche."

The former five-term governor was elected in 1956 to a six-year term in the U.S. Senate.

Bartunek said it is "ridiculous" to have three qualified men from Cleveland seeking the governorship.

Cleveland Mayor Anthony Celebrezze already has announced his candidacy and Bartunek said Cuyahoga County engineer Albert S. Porter and Thomas A. Burke, former mayor and U.S. Senator, are potential candidates.

Columbus Mayor Maynard E. Sensenbrenner also has announced he will run for the top Ohio position and it is believed that Michael V. DiSalle of Toledo, unsuccessful in bids for governor and U.S. Senator is another likely prospect.

In other action, Mrs. Myrna Smith of Kent, secretary of the late Gov. Martin L. Davey and recently elected president of the Democratic Women's Federation, was named to a vacancy on the State Executive Committee. A new state treasurer to fill the vacancy created by the death of Earl Applegate of Steubenville will be appointed later, Coleman said.

A resolution by Don Gosney of Columbiana and John Taylor of Salem for the purchase of a Columbus property to establish an "Ohio Historical Democratic Headquarters" was tabled.

Sub-committees were named to make sure that Democrats would have candidates in all races for state, congressional and legislative offices.

Rep. Frances McGovern of Akron and Bartunek were named to the legislative group; John A. Wiethe of Cincinnati, party chairman in Hamilton County, and John P. Kelley of Toledo to the state offices group, and Mrs. Helen Gunsett of Van Wert and Albert A. Horstman of Dayton to the congressional group.

'Rubber Checks' Written To State Total $1½ Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy's office keeps a special ledger for bouncing checks.

They total about 1½ million dollars a year.

Recent increase in the number of bad checks received from those doing business with the state indicates to officials that times are getting a little tougher.

Totals increased from 32 "rubber" checks for $2,480 in one day to 45 for $3,772 the following day, latest tabulations showed.

Amounts of the checks ranged from $2.50 to $1,130. They came from individuals and firms for taxes, premiums, and fees, and a number of officials who drew checks on the wrong funds or made them out improperly. Premiums include those for workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation funds.

Harry Startzman, Tracy's cashier, said every check passing through the state treasurer's office is photographed as well as posted. Those that bounce are returned for collection to the department that deposited them in the state treasury.

That makes the various departments responsible for any loss resulting from failure to collect on the checks.

Most of the checks come back marked "insufficient funds." But many of them bear no signature of the maker, are not endorsed, are drawn by individuals on savings accounts or on uncollectable funds against which checks cannot be written.

Some checks stating on their face that are not collectable after 30 days fail to arrive within that time limit and are sent back to be made out anew.

One of the largest checks to bounce this year was for a $38,500 tax payment.

The Sales Tax Division avoids considerable difficulty by requiring certified checks from purchasers of tax stamps for cigarets and beer. The Bureau of Motor Vehicles requests purchasers of special motor vehicle license plates for certified checks or money orders. But many motorists send in personal checks that bounce.

Officials assert the number of bad checks is not relatively high when the total handled is considered. About 20,000 checks arrive daily in the state treasurer's office. They total about $1,600,000,000 a year.

But the work of tabulating bad checks requires virtually the full time of an employe to keep the state treasurer from losing any money on them, Tracy reported.

Rare Coin 'Dealer' Out of Business

The woman reported to police that her collection of rare coins valued at $3,000 was missing and patrolmen started an investigation.

Through purchasers of some of the coins the officers traced the seller and the woman identified him as her 8-year-old son.

The boy couldn't understand why anyone would want to keep old coins which could be exchanged for bright new ones.

Reward Offered In Fayette Slaying

WASHINGTON C. H. (AP) — Fayette County Commissioners have offered a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the slayer of Mrs. Sarah DeWitt.

Mrs. DeWitt, 87, was the victim of a hatchet murder on her farm three miles northeast of here last July 2. Since then, officials have questioned many persons in an unsuccessful effort to solve the case.

Mrs. DeWitt in her will left more than $30,000 to the crippled children of Fayette County.

Storm Hero Named 'Doctor of Year'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Cecil W. Clark, a 37-year-old country doctor of Cameron, La., and medical hero when hurricane Audrey roared into that small town last June, has been chosen by the American Medical Assn. as the nation's "most outstanding family physician" for 1957.

Clark, who was the only physician in Cameron at the time of the disaster, was named "general practitioner of the year" by the House of Delegates, the policy making body of the AMA which opened its 11th annual clinical session here Tuesday.

Boss of GOP Chides Split Ballot Voters

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—Republican national chairman Meade Alcorn today chided Republicans who stay home on election day or vote for Democrats because of displeasure with GOP candidates.

"The Republican who stays home or splits his ticket because he may not be in absolute agreement with his own party's candidate or platform is inviting the establishment of policies with which he is certain to find himself in almost total disagreement," Alcorn said.

The GOP party chief's remarks were prepared for a Republican state conference.

Alcorn cited two elections to bear out his point about what happens when Republicans do not actively support their party.

Had that election gone the other way, he said, Republicans with Vice President Nixon's help would have been able to organize the Senate and assume the chairmanships of its committees.

In the other, Democrat William E. Proxmire won a special election last August to fill the Wisconsin Senate seat left vacant by the death of Republican Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy. Proxmire defeated former Gov. Walter J. Kohler, a Republican.

'Seagoing' Cops Given Run-Around

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—Two groups of "seagoing" policemen have been going around in circles on the Schuylkill River since Saturday trying to round up 10 imported swans which escaped from their riverside pen.

The birds with wings clipped had been brought in to grace riverside beautification projects.

Police in outboard motorboats tried casting bread on the waters, but still the swans paddled swiftly out of reach. The swans are worth about $75 each.

COLUMBUS (AP) — A 29-mile stretch of a route that will eventually circle Greater Cincinnati will be discussed Dec. 27 in a public hearing in the Hamilton County Courthouse.

The proposed route begins about one mile east of Hazelwood in the northwest corner of Hamilton County and circles north around Cincinnati, ending at U. S. 50 about one mile northeast of Elizabethtown in the southwest corner of the county.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa. (AP)—Two groups of "seagoing" policemen have been going around in circles on the Schuylkill River since Saturday trying to round up 10 imported swans which escaped from their riverside pen.

The birds with wings clipped had been brought in to grace riverside beautification projects.

Police in outboard motorboats tried casting bread on the waters, but still the swans paddled swiftly out of reach. The swans are worth about $75 each.

RICHMOND, Calif. (AP) — Ambulance driver Jim Reid delivered his 67th baby Tuesday. He got a call to take Mrs. Maxine Bohanan, 32, to a hospital. The stork arrived ahead of time, however, and Reid delivered a 5-pound girl.

Hearing Scheduled On Cincy Bypass

COLUMBUS (AP) — A 29-mile stretch of a route that will eventually circle Greater Cincinnati will be discussed Dec. 27 in a public hearing in the Hamilton County Courthouse.

The Ohio Department of Highways said it hopes to select a definite route for the $10 million stretch soon after the hearing.

The proposed route begins about one mile east of Hazelwood in the northwest corner of Hamilton County and circles north around Cincinnati, ending at U. S. 50 about one mile northeast of Elizabethtown in the southwest corner of the county.

'Rubber Checks' Written To State Total $1½ Million

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — State Treasurer Roger W. Tracy's office keeps a special ledger for bouncing checks.

They total about 1½ million dollars a year.

Recent increase in the number of bad checks received from those doing business with the state indicates to officials that times are getting a little tougher.

Totals increased from 32 "rubber" checks for $2,480 in one day to 45 for $3,772 the following day, latest tabulations showed.

Amounts of the checks ranged from $2.50 to $1,130. They came from individuals and firms for taxes, premiums, and fees, and a number of officials who drew checks on the wrong funds or made them out improperly. Premiums include those for workmen's compensation and unemployment compensation funds.

Harry Startzman, Tracy's cashier, said every check passing through the state treasurer's office is photographed as well as posted. Those that bounce are returned for collection to the department that deposited them in the state treasury.

That makes the various departments responsible for any loss resulting from failure to collect on the checks.

Most of the checks come back marked "insufficient funds." But many of them bear no signature of the maker, are not endorsed, are drawn by individuals on savings accounts or on uncollectable funds against which checks cannot be written.

Some checks stating on their face that are not collectable after 30 days fail to arrive within that time limit and are sent back to be made out anew.

One of the largest checks to bounce this year was for a $38,500 tax payment.

The Sales Tax Division avoids considerable difficulty by requiring certified checks from purchasers of tax stamps for cigarets and beer. The Bureau of Motor Vehicles requests purchasers of special motor vehicle license plates for certified checks or money orders. But many motorists send in personal checks that bounce.

Officials assert the number of bad checks is not relatively high when the total handled is considered. About 20,000 checks arrive daily in the state treasurer's office. They total about $1,600,000,000 a year.

But the work of tabulating bad checks requires virtually the full time of an employe to keep the state treasurer from losing any money on them, Tracy reported.

Reward Offered In Fayette Slaying

WASHINGTON C. H. (AP) — Fayette County Commissioners have offered a reward of $1,000 for information leading to the apprehension and conviction of the slayer of Mrs. Sarah DeWitt.

Mrs. DeWitt, 87, was the victim of a hatchet murder on her farm three miles northeast of here last July 2. Since then, officials have questioned many persons in an unsuccessful effort to solve the case.

Mrs. DeWitt in her will left more than $30,000 to the crippled children of Fayette County.

False Run Kills Man

KANSAS CITY (AP) — James H. Terrill, 66, collapsed and died of a heart attack as he ran for a bus. His wife said later: "It turned out to be the wrong bus."

SPRINGFIELD (AP)—The Wittenberg College trustees Tuesday voted to change the name of the school to Wittenberg University, effective Sept. 1, 1959.

Joint CD Pact OKd

CINCINNATI (AP) — Commissioners of Hamilton and Warren counties have signed an agreement for joint Civil Defense.

Rare Coin 'Dealer' Out of Business

The woman reported to police that her collection of rare coins valued at $3,000 was missing and patrolmen started an investigation.

Through purchasers of some of the coins the officers traced the seller and the woman identified him as her 8-year-old son.

The boy couldn't understand why anyone would want to keep old coins which could be exchanged for bright new ones.

Storm Hero Named 'Doctor of Year'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Dr. Cecil W. Clark, a 37-year-old country doctor of Cameron, La., and medical hero when hurricane Audrey roared into that small town last June, has been chosen by the American Medical Assn. as the nation's "most outstanding family physician" for 1957.

Dr. Clark lost three of his five children in the hurricane.

Clark, who was the only physician in Cameron at the time of the disaster, was named "general practitioner of the year" by the House of Delegates, the policy making body of the AMA which opened its 11th annual clinical session here Tuesday.

County Vo-Ag Students Pick 67 Different Farm Projects

Boys in Pickaway county, enrolled in Vocational Agriculture, have just completed election of projects for this year's farming program.

Many people in the county have the mistaken idea that the projects which Vo-Ag boys carry are F.F.A. projects. This, however, is not true, because the projects are actually part of the courses offered by the Vocational Agriculture department in the county. Those projects are graded regularly and make up part to each six weeks grade in Vocational Agriculture. The projects are intended to give each boy an opportunity to use various improved practices which he studies in class.

Projects elected in Vocational Agriculture are of three types—production projects, improvement projects and supplementary farm practices.

Production projects are business ventures designed to give boys experience and profit in farming. They involve the production of some type of crop and or livestock for which the boys have a financial interest, and responsibility for doing most of the work, besides keeping complete production, labor and financial records.

* * *

IMPROVEMENT projects are undertakings similar to production projects, except the boy does not have any direct income from it or any financial investment. They should be carefully planned and involve a series of jobs to improve the appearance and efficiency of the home farm as a whole or, in respect to some one enterprise.

Supplementary farm practices are small farm jobs relating to enterprises or activities which are not included in the boys' production or improvement projects. The boys need to plan them and then do or practice for additional experience, skill and efficiency.

Parents are very important in this phase of Vocational Agriculture.

Following is a summary of the projects elected by the 67 boys in the county, enrolled in Vo-Ag.

Crops— 13 corn projects, 7 wheat, 2 oats, 1 soybeans, 5 vegetables for market, 1 maple syrup, 2 hay and 2 home gardens.

Livestock— 22 sow and litter projects, 6 feeder pigs, 7 dairy cows, 2 dairy heifers, 1 poultry flock, 2 chicks for meat, 14 sheep flock, 7 beef cows and 13 steers.

Also there are 3 farm labor projects and 46 improvement projects of various nature.

Let's All Go Shopping!

Before that next shopping trip, let's all think about what makes possible that vast array and variety of items available in any store. It is the science of industrial arts or technology! This may sound complicated but it involves a lot of research from which all consumers benefit.

The consumer is the one who buys the products resulting from such advances. The wise and informed consumer is not going to buy anything unless he feels it is the very best buy for all concerned.

One example of technology is the hybrid seed corn and pork and beef situation. The fluctuating return of the improved corn was received sadly and gladly until the majority of farmers adopted this hybrid corn.

Results:— Corn production went up, the prices down, and more and better pork chops and beef steaks were produced for more attractive prices.

According to related statistics from specialists, there is little doubt that consumers today would be paying a higher price for and eating less of both pork and beef products had not the hybrid seed corn been produced.

Yes, everyone has a stake in research. Consumers reap most of the benefits of more efficient production and marketing.

HOW MUCH ARE you paying for your maid?

Every household in the United States is enjoying the benefits of "maid service" yet only 1 per cent of the families actually have a full-time servant and 4 per cent have servants of any kind.

Technology is dispensing maid service by: (1) cutting down on the time required to do household chores; (2) supplying such things as automatic equipment; (3) prepared and partially prepared foods; (4) pre-cut and pre-packaged items.

If we purchased the same food items today that were eaten 20 years ago, we could buy them for 17 per cent of the income rather than the 25 per cent spent then.

The prices of everyday living items continue to increase bit by bit. The average family now pays about $103.60 for what cost $100 a year ago. Authority says this upward trend probably will continue!

As for incomes, we might think in terms of this 1956 Census Bureau report:

Half of all families in the United States had incomes of at least $4,783. Additional findings show that amount spent on each student in public schools has increased from $203 in 1948 to $280 in 1956. According to college statistics boys spend an average of $100 more than girls.

WHEN SHOPPING for lemons, one can be grateful to the advances of technology which have made possible the new device for sorting faster and more accurately. An electronic machine has solved the problem of sorting lemons according to ripeness. This machine does the same work that formerly required 40 men. Also, this machine is more accurate than men.

It separates over a million lemons a day into five precisely measured color categories. Lemon growers are the only ones using the machine at present but as stated by the American Institute of Food Distribution, its use will proably be extended to other fruits.

Before we begin to plan too extensively on seasonal preparations like cakes, candies, and cookies, lets weigh what is available in ingredients. Those labels have a lot of information that a lot of people never see, even when such is on a conspicious shelf at home, for weeks.

This year's production of almonds is about 10 per cent above the average and the carry-over is the heaviest on record. The filbert crop is about 3½ times as large as the short crop of last year.

For that sweet cooking, now or later, we recommend this recipe tested and proved successful many times by Linda Burton, a 10-year-old "technologist" from Knollwood Village. It is White Wonder frosting.

For a large cake Miss Burton mixes in the top of a double boiler: 2 egg whites (1-3 cup), 2-3 cup of sugar, 3 tablespoons light corn syrup, and .. teaspoon cream of tartar. She places this over boiling water for 6 minutes, stirring with finger as long as she can comfortably do so. The next step is to remove the preparation from the heat and beat with rotary beater until icing will hold its shape. Lastly fold in 1½ teaspoon vanilla.

Price Squeeze To Continue Through 1958

By GEORGE HAMRICK
County Agricultural Agent

The cost prize squeeze in agriculture which began in 1953 and has gone on in 1957 is likely to continue about the same or a little lower level in 1958. Prices for farm products were up a little in 1957 and will likely be only slightly higher if any in 1958.

Prices paid by farmers are expected to be slightly higher also for both production items and family living costs. The ratio between prices and costs will likely remain about the same, near 82 per cent. This ratio figure has continually gone lower since the peak of 109 per cent during the 1945-1949 period.

Farmers' costs for production items and for family living are expected to be up 2 to 4 per cent above the 1957 level. Increases are expected in all items except feed. There are no changes anticipated for prices of seed and fertilizer.

Prices paid by farmers are based on 1910-1914 figures at which time these figures represented 100 per cent. To indicate the change that has taken place and the per cent of increase for various items, labor is the one single item that has increased most. On the basis of the 100 per cent 1910-1914 base period, labor has increased to 565 per cent, taxes 450 per cent, seed 212 per cent, feed 195 per cent, interest rates 171 per cent, and fertilizer only 151 per cent.

These figures would indicate that farmers, in an effort to receive a greater net return, should get the most possible for their labor dollar and to increase to a reasonable degree their amount of fertilizer, a production item that has increased less than all other production items.

Three to four times more forage growth is produced per acre in the period from May to July than is produced from July to October.

4-H CLUB NEWS

By Clarence Cunningham

"I see where Beverly McKenzie from Pickaway County i. attending the National Club Congress this week. That sounds interesting, but how can I win a trip to Chicago?" That comment has been made by several Pickaway County 4-H members.

Let's look at what Beverly did that may have been part of her winning a trip. Early last year Beverly completed a short report form with her 4-H, school, church, and community activities for several years. In addition she completed a nine-page "theme" on her 4-H achievements and experiences.

In looking over this application I find a record that includes, among others, the following things: eight years a 4-H member, 10 projects completed including two canning projects, entry at State Fair in canning, gave 4-H demonstrations each year, attended 4-H camp, held club offices of recreation leader, treasurer, and vice president, was a Junior Leader, member of school glee club, officer in high school class, student council representative, officer of Logan Elm Grange, and plays clarinet in school orchestra.

I mentioned that she first filled out an application, but as you can now see, she entered many activities in previous years. Of course, after being selected county winner by the 4-H Advisory Council, Miss McKenzie had to fill out the state application before being considered for Ohio honors. She is now being considered for National honors. This, too, required a detailed application and narrative.

BEVERLY WON her trip in canning and you may ask, what other contests are there that I could enter? A few of the contests with the winners receiving National Club Congress trips are: achievement, boys' agricultural, clothing, dairy, dress revue, electric, entomology, field crops, food preparation, frozen foods, garden, girls' home economics, health, home improvement, leadership, meat animal, poultry, safety, soil and water conservation and tractor.

Now if you are interested in any of these awards or other county trips, be sure to make application through your club advisor next spring at enrollment time, not in August or September.

Members should have completed three years of 4-H club work and be 14 years of age before entring. If you don't meet these requirements, plan your projects so you will be eligible to win in a few years.

OSU Offering Farm Course

Do you want additional training in farm electricity, farm machinery, feeding, or other farm topics? Young farmers who are interested, take note. Topics to be covered during the eight weeks include: farm business management, feeding, fertilizers, fertility, animal breeding, and selection, milk production and herd management, livestock production and management, pasture improvement, poultry, electricity, pests and weed control and farm machinery.

Certificates will be awarded to those completing, but credit cannot be counted toward a degree in agriculture. University fees will be charged.

At 11:45 a. m. there will be inspirational fellowship around a cooperative luncheon table.

Full time, part time, or alternated visits to Santa's Workshop will be agreeable to all concerned.

Bradley '5' Still Labeled Hot Outfit

Braves Chalk Up 94-47 Win, Aim at National Honors

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bradley's hot-shooting Braves are still at it, declaring themselves "in" on the race for national honors in college basketball with an impressive 94-47 victory over Illinois Normal.

The Braves, retaining many of the kids who came hustling out of nowhere to win the National Invitation Tournament last season, fired at a spectacular .553 percentage from the field Tuesday night against outclassed Normal.

Iowa, relying mostly on sophomores, defeated Southern Methodist 65-60 in overtime. Holden Gentry, a 6-7 Hawkeye whose foul gave SMU the free throw it needed for a 54-54 deadlock at the end of regulation time, canned six points in the extra session. SMU's Bob James was high scorer with 23.

Kansas State ripped Texas Western 76-31 with Jack Parr scoring 18. Missouri defeated South Dakota U. 73-62, hitting 56.5 of its shots.

In other Midwest games Notre Dame opened with an 82-63 decision over St. Ambrose of Iowa; and Detroit whipped Assumption (Ont) 82-57.

Drake defeated South Dakota State 67-58 with Red Murrell scoring 35 points—for a two-night total of 62. Wichita overhauled Wyoming in the second half for a 66-54 victory with Joe Stevens scoring 23.

Auburn, considered a Southeastern Conference power, smacked Jacksonville State 89-50 with a balanced scoring punch. Georgia Tech defeated Davidson 74-52.

West Virginia collected its 22nd consecutive Southern Conference victory with a 109-50 job on Virginia Military. Joedy Gardner scored 22 for the champs.

Cetics Seem To Have Star In Reserve

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

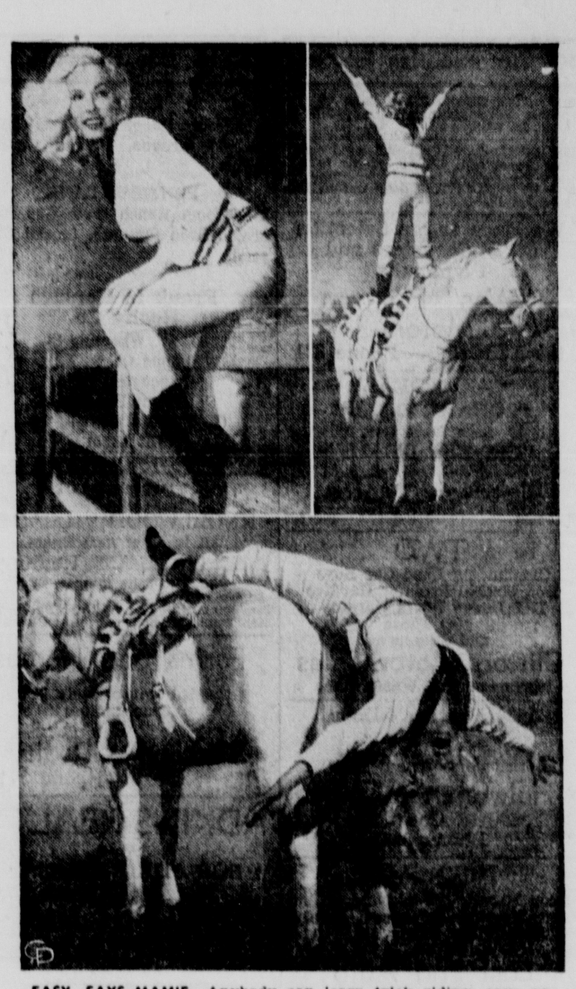

The Boston Celtics have completed one-fourth of their National Basketball Assn. schedule and with a 16-2 record appear headed for a rout of their competition in the circuit's Eastern Division.

Most of the time, the Celtics get the bulk of their scoring from either Bob Cousy, Bill Sharman or Bill Russell. Sometimes it's someone else.

Tuesday night, the "someone else" was Frank Ramsey, who dropped in 35 points as Boston rode over the Detroit Pistons 124-113. Sharman pitched in with 32 as the winners moved comfortably ahead in the third quarter. George Yardley, the league's top scorer, had 34 for Detroit.

The triumph enabled Boston to increase its lead to seven games over the Syracuse Nationals, who moved into that spot with a 119-96 victory over Philadelphia Warriors in the first game at a Madison Square Garden. The New York Knickerbockers beat Cincinnati's Royals 110-104 in the second game.

The St. Louis Hawks also continued to roll along with a 115-108 triumph over the hapless Minneapolis Lakers. The Hawks' success coupled with the Royals' setback moved St. Louis 2½ games in front in the Western Division.

EASY, SAYS MAMIE—Anybody can learn trick riding, says actress Mamie Van Doren as she goes through these paces in Newhall, Calif. She's doing it for a new film, "Born Reckless," and, no doubt, hopes it will turn out "wreckless." Mary Boss, world champ trick rider, is teacher. (International Soundphotos)

Brown Favored To Retain His Ring Crown

CHICAGO (AP)—Diminutive Joey Lopes puts his speed against the canniness and punching power of champion Joe Brown tonight in a lightweight title fight.

Brown, who has scored 28 knockouts in winning 67 of 90 bouts, is a solid favorite although the challenger from Sacramento, Calif., held the champ to a 10-round non-title draw four months ago in Chicago Stadium.

This accomplishment earned the 27-year-old Lopes a shot at the crown and the match was made by the International Boxing Club despite sharp criticism from some quarters that No. 2 ranked Kenny Lane deserved the chance.

Lopes, who stands 5-6 and is two inches shorter than Brown, is rated the No. 7 contender by the National Boxing Assn. and No. 6 by Ring Magazine. He has 43 victories in 57 starts and is credited with 16 kayoes.

The 15-rounder in Chicago Stadium will be televised nationally at 10 p. m. EST.

Brown, at least four years older than the Portugal-born challenger, is unbeaten in his last 13 fights. He is one of the busiest fighters in the business, having had six bouts already this year. This will be his third title defense since winning the 135-pound crown from Bud Smith Aug. 24, 1956.

Brown, whose home is in New Orleans, this year scored an 11-round Kayo over Smith and a 15-round knockout of Orlando Zulueta in title defenses. The odds that he will knock out Lopes are 2-1.

Others in the backfield are Norman Jarock, St. Norbert's in Wisconsin, the total offense leader among the players competing for the smaller colleges; Dan Nolan, Lehigh, the T-formation perfectionist drafted by the Washington Redskins; and Charles Bradshaw of Wofford.

In front of this quartet are seven robust linemen with the two tackles and end Howard Clark of Chattanooga outstanding.

James Hardin, a Bowling Green guard, made the second team. Honorable mention includes Dan McBride, an Ashland guard; Eddie Garver, a Capital back, and Marvin Smith of Denison, another back.

NEW YORK (AP) — A halfback, playing for a small college but so good he was chosen in the first round of the pro draft, is the bulwark of the Associated Press' annual Little All America.

He is Leonard Lyles of Louisville, who led the nation's scorers with 132 points. His team won a berth in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., against Drake, because his high-scoring exploits. The Baltimore Colts of the National Football League made him their first draft pick this week.

Others in the backfield are Norman Jarock, St. Norbert's in Wisconsin, the total offense leader among the players competing for the smaller colleges; Dan Nolan, Lehigh, the T-formation perfectionist drafted by the Washington Redskins; and Charles Bradshaw of Wofford.

In front of this quartet are seven robust linemen with the two tackles and end Howard Clark of Chattanooga outstanding.

James Hardin, a Bowling Green guard, made the second team. Honorable mention includes Dan McBride, an Ashland guard; Eddie Garver, a Capital back, and Marvin Smith of Denison, another back.

Texas Aggie Wins '57 Heisman Trophy

NEW YORK (AP)—John Crow, the Texas Aggies meat and potatoes guy, has a knife and fork banquet date a week from tonight to receive the Heisman Trophy as college football's top player of 1957.

Selection of the 214-pound senior halfback for the coveted award was announced Tuesday by the Downtown Athletic Club of New York. Crow, tabbed by Paul (Bear) Bryant as the best player he ever coached, was an overwhelming choice of 1,267 sportswriters participating in nationwide balloting.

Kentucky Cagers Awaited by OSU

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State takes the wraps off its 1957-58 basketball team tonight when the Buckeyes clash with highly touted Kentucky.

Buckeye boosters, still talking Rose Bowl in this football-happy town, predict big things for coach Floyd Stahl's cagers.

Tonight's encounter with Kentucky in Ohio's St. John Arena may provide a better line on the Buckeyes.

Pre-season forecasters have tabbed Ohio, Michigan State and Indiana as leading contenders for Western Conference honors.

Toledo Gridder Has Aunt Here

Dave Bernard, son of the former Grace Steele of Circleville, proved to be a mainstay on the Toledo DeVilbiss High School football squad this season.

According to his coach, Bernard was a prime factor in DeVilbiss' 11 victories this year. An example of his ability was a game-saving pass interception in the DeVilbiss-Libby battle despite the handicap of playing with a broken nose.

He interception preserved a 13-7 DeVilbiss win. He also made another vital interception deep in his own territory.

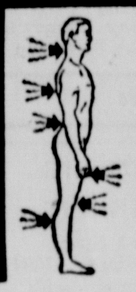

The Toledo gridder is a nephew of Mrs. Helen Pickens, Pickaway County health nurse. A brother Bill was an outstanding player at DeVilbiss about seven years ago.

HEATING IS BASIC
It is a major, lifetime investment for the security and comfort of the whole family. A mistake in equipment can be very costly ... so select heating quality with care. It pays.

The one part of your gas-fired furnace that takes a terrific fire-beating is its very heart ... its heat exchanger. (Note illustration on left.)

In ordinary heating equipment its life expectancy may be very low indeed ...

But your furnace's "heating heart" can last a lifetime with Dura-tube

...the "armored heart" heat exchanger that is practically indestructible...found only in the gas-fired deluxe Janitrol "Crusader"

★ PROOF OF DURABILITY: In nearly ¼ million Janitrol Dura-tubes, in over 5 years, records show there have been no replacements.

★ BETTER THAN CAST-IRON; BETTER THAN STEEL: This process has been approved by American Gas Association for heat exchanger temperatures far beyond that allowed for either cast-iron or for steel!

One of the most important ways of measuring heating quality is its Durability. Dura-tube's actual replacement record of zero in 5 years and in nearly ¼ million tubes, speaks volumes.

Since 1953 when Michigan State began football in the Big Ten the Spartans have had six of their players gain all-conference first-team honors.

Trainer Moody Jolley, 48, says 1957 was his best year in racing. He handled Nadir, winner of the Garden State Stakes and Bayou, a filly who won four stakes races during the year.

PUBLIC ENEMY — By Blake

OHIO OUTDOORS
from THE OHIO DIVISION OF WILDLIFE

The long awaited book "The Fishes of Ohio" is off the presses and according to Ohio State University officials, orders are being filled.

The author, Dr. Milton B. Trautman, Curator of Vertebrate Collections of The Ohio State University, has devoted nearly 30 years of field and laboratory work to the preparation of this publication. Dr. Trautman had the assistance of some 400 people who, in one way or another, helped bring the book to its final form.

"The Fishes of Ohio" will show the changes in distribution and abundance of Ohio fishes which have occurred between the years 1750-1950 and will present reasons for these changes. The book also provides two keys for identification of the 157 species and 12 additional sub-species found in the state.

One of the keys was designed for students of ichthyology and is of the more conventional type. The other, illustrated with a figure of each species and occasional anatomical drawings, is as simple as possible to aid the layman in identifying various species. The book is profusely illustrated and contains 395 black and white drawings of all species and sub-species found in the state, together with structural features of each.

FISHERIES workers and fishermen throughout the country will find considerable interest in the 172 distribution maps, plus ten additional maps with inserts showing range of all species in North America.

Seven original four-color paintings showing 21 different native fishes and drawn by Mrs. Lydia M. (Hart) Green, who did such an outstanding piece of work in illustrating the well-known Fishes of Illinois by Forbes and Richardson, add considerably to the value of this fine work.

The book has been printed to take full advantage of the fine drawings and sketches and is bound in buckram.

"Fishes of Ohio" should be ordered from Ohio State University Press, Columbus 10, Ohio.

The price of $7 includes sales tax and postage. Orders will be filled within a week or ten days.

With the principal part of the hunting season yet to come, Ohio hunters have already set an unenviable record — 39 hunting casualties, seven of them fatal. It should be pointed out that although there was a like number of fatalities during the 1956 squirrel hunting season, the number of non-fatal accidents increased from 28 in 1956 to 39 this year, due no doubt to the increased number of hunters in the field.

Harold Green, supervisor of firearms and water safety in the division of wildlife, points out that "a shotgun is the most vicious firearm ever invented." Be sure of your target. A 22 rifle can kill a mile away. Be careful. Wear bright colored clothing while hunting. It may save your life.

WITH rabbit and pheasant season opening on November 15, Ohio hunters should acquaint themselves with the following regulations: Hunting season for rabbits—November 15 through January 1. Daily limit 4, possession limit after first day 8. Hunting hours 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Pheasant, cocks only, November 15 through December 7, daily bag limit 2, possession limit after first day 4. Hungarian Partridge, November 15 through December 7, daily bag limit 2, possession limit after first day 4. The trapping season for muskrat, mink, raccoon, opossum and skunk also opens on November 15 and runs through March 15, 1958. There is no bag or possession limit on these furbearers.

Cost of a resident hunting and trapping license is $2 and is required of all persons hunting and trapping who have resided in Ohio for six months or more, except that the owner and children of owner of land and the tenant or manager or his children residing on such land may hunt or trap thereon without a hunting and trapping license.

Non-resident license costs $15 and is required of all persons who have not resided in Ohio for a period of six months or more. Members of the armed services are not required to have a hunting and trapping license while on active duty.

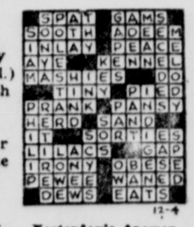

No person under 16 years of age shall hunt unless accompanied by his parent or other adult person.

As a public service, the division of wildlife has available a supply of public hunting area maps, together with additional information of importance to the hunter.

South Dakota Proves Birds Come Back after Heavy Kill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"They never come back," say some of the sages among the sitting down type sports experts—but then, they haven't heard the word from South Dakota pheasant hunters.

So here's the word: They do come back. The pheasants, that is, and subsequently the hunters.

What happens to the wily ringneck in South Dakota is of more than passing interest elsewhere, because pheasant hunting was practically invented there.

In 1947 more than 85,000 non-resident hunters journeyed to the promised land to try for the take-home limit of 25 birds. Most of them made it. The season's bag was 7 million pheasants. State economists figured the visitors spent $7.50 for each bird they bagged.

That was the end of a great decade. Enormous chunks of prime country were swallowed up in private leases and posted against public hunting. Farmers whose fields were inundated by visitors supported a law prohibiting the hunting of standing grain. More intensive farming practices put prime pheasant cover under the plow. The state passed a law prohibiting non-resident hunters from waterfowl shooting.

And the well went dry. By 1951, only 1,920 non-resident licenses were sold, and only about 500,000 pheasants were harvested.

But then South Dakota conservation officials, who had accumulated a 5 million surplus in those years when non-residents were paying $20 a copy for licenses—plus $15 for an extra 15-bird permit—became a little wistful. So did the hotel, motel, restaurant and companion tourist industries.

The state acquired 60,000 acres of public hunting grounds; 5,000 acres of state game farm lands and 9,000 acres along the Fort Randall reservoir.

And the pheasants began to come back. This season, some 20,000 non-residents were back in Dakota's birdy stubble fields and fence rows. The kill during the season just closed was something over 1,600,000.

Conservation director Thomas A. Schrader says this harvest may be only about 30 per cent of the birds available for cropping under good management practices.

Schrader says he'll recommend an additional season of 10 days to two weeks be authorized, starting Dec. 21. With a good hatch, he added, next year might be something like the roaring 40s all over again.

So you see how it is. Once in a while, they do come back.

With a little help.

OHIO OUTDOORS
from THE OHIO DIVISION OF WILDLIFE

The long awaited book "The Fishes of Ohio" is off the presses and according to Ohio State University officials, orders are being filled.

The author, Dr. Milton B. Trautman, Curator of Vertebrate Collections of The Ohio State University, has devoted nearly 30 years of field and laboratory work to the preparation of this publication. Dr. Trautman had the assistance of some 400 people who, in one way or another, helped bring the book to its final form.

"The Fishes of Ohio" will show the changes in distribution and abundance of Ohio fishes which have occurred between the years 1750-1950 and will present reasons for these changes. The book also provides two keys for identification of the 157 species and 12 additional sub-species found in the state.

One of the keys was designed for students of ichthyology and is of the more conventional type. The other, illustrated with a figure of each species and occasional anatomical drawings, is as simple as possible to aid the layman in identifying various species. The book is profusely illustrated and contains 395 black and white drawings of all species and sub-species found in the state, together with structural features of each.

* * *

FISHERIES workers and fishermen throughout the country will find considerable interest in the 172 distribution maps, plus ten additional maps with inserts showing range of all species in North America.

Seven original four-color paintings showing 21 different native fishes and drawn by Mrs. Lydia M. (Hart) Green, who did such an outstanding piece of work in illustrating the well-known Fishes of Illinois by Forbes and Richardson, add considerably to the value of this fine work.

The book has been printed to take full advantage of the fine drawings and sketches and is bound in buckram.

"Fishes of Ohio" should be ordered from Ohio State University Press, Columbus 10, Ohio. The price of $7 includes sales tax and postage. Orders will be filled within a week or ten days.

With the principal part of the hunting season yet to come, Ohio hunters have already set an unenviable record — 39 hunting casualties, seven of them fatal. It should be pointed out that although there was a like number of fatalities during the 1956 squirrel hunting season, the number of non-fatal accidents increased from 28 in 1956 to 39 this year, due no doubt to the increased number of hunters in the field.

Harold Green, supervisor of firearms and water safety in the division of wildlife, points out that "a shotgun is the most vicious firearm ever invented." Be sure of your target. A 22 rifle can kill a mile away. Be careful. Wear bright colored clothing while hunting. It may save your life.

WITH rabbit and pheasant season opening on November 15, Ohio hunters should acquaint themselves with the following regulations: Hunting season for rabbits—November 15 through January 1. Daily limit 4, possession limit after first day 8. Hunting hours 9 a. m. to 5 p. m. Pheasant, cocks only, November 15 through December 7, daily bag limit 2, possession limit after first day 4. Hungarian Partridge, November 15 through December 7, daily bag limit 2, possession limit after first day 4. The trapping season for muskrat, mink, raccoon, opossum and skunk also opens on November 15 and runs through March 15, 1958. There is no bag or possession limit on these furbearers.

Cost of a resident hunting and trapping license is $2 and is required of all persons hunting and trapping who have resided in Ohio for six months or more, except that the owner and children of owner of land and the tenant or manager or his children residing on such land may hunt or trap thereon without a hunting and trapping license.

Non-resident license costs $15 and is required of all persons who have not resided in Ohio for a period of six months or more. Members of the armed services are not required to have a hunting and trapping license while on active duty.

No person under 16 years of age shall hunt unless accompanied by his parent or other adult person.

As a public service, the division of wildlife has available a supply of public hunting area maps, together with additional information of importance to the hunter.

South Dakota Proves Birds Come Back after Heavy Kill

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"They never come back," say some of the sages among the sitting down type sports experts—but then, they haven't heard the word from South Dakota pheasant hunters.

So here's the word: They do come back. The pheasants, that is, and subsequently the hunters.

What happens to the wily ringneck in South Dakota is of more than passing interest elsewhere, because pheasant hunting was practically invented there.

In 1947 more than 85,000 non-resident hunters journeyed to the promised land to try for the take-home limit of 25 birds. Most of them made it. The season's bag was 7 million pheasants. State economists figured the visitors spent $7.50 for each bird they bagged.

That was the end of a great decade. Enormous chunks of prime country were swallowed up in private leases and posted against public hunting. Farmers whose fields were inundated by visitors supported a law prohibiting the hunting of standing grain. More intensive farming practices put prime pheasant cover under the plow. The state passed a law prohibiting non-resident hunters from waterfowl shooting.

And the well went dry. By 1951, only 1,920 non-resident licenses were sold, and only about 500,000 pheasants were harvested.

But then South Dakota conservation officials, who had accumulated a 5 million surplus in those years when non-residents were paying $20 a copy for licenses—plus $15 for an extra 15-bird permit—became a little wistful. So did the hotel, motel, restaurant and companion tourist industries.

The state acquired 60,000 acres of public hunting grounds; 5,000 acres of state game farm lands and 9,000 acres along the Fort Randall reservoir.

And the pheasants began to come back. This season, some 20,000 non-residents were back in Dakota's birdy stubble fields and fence rows. The kill during the season just closed was something over 1,600,000.

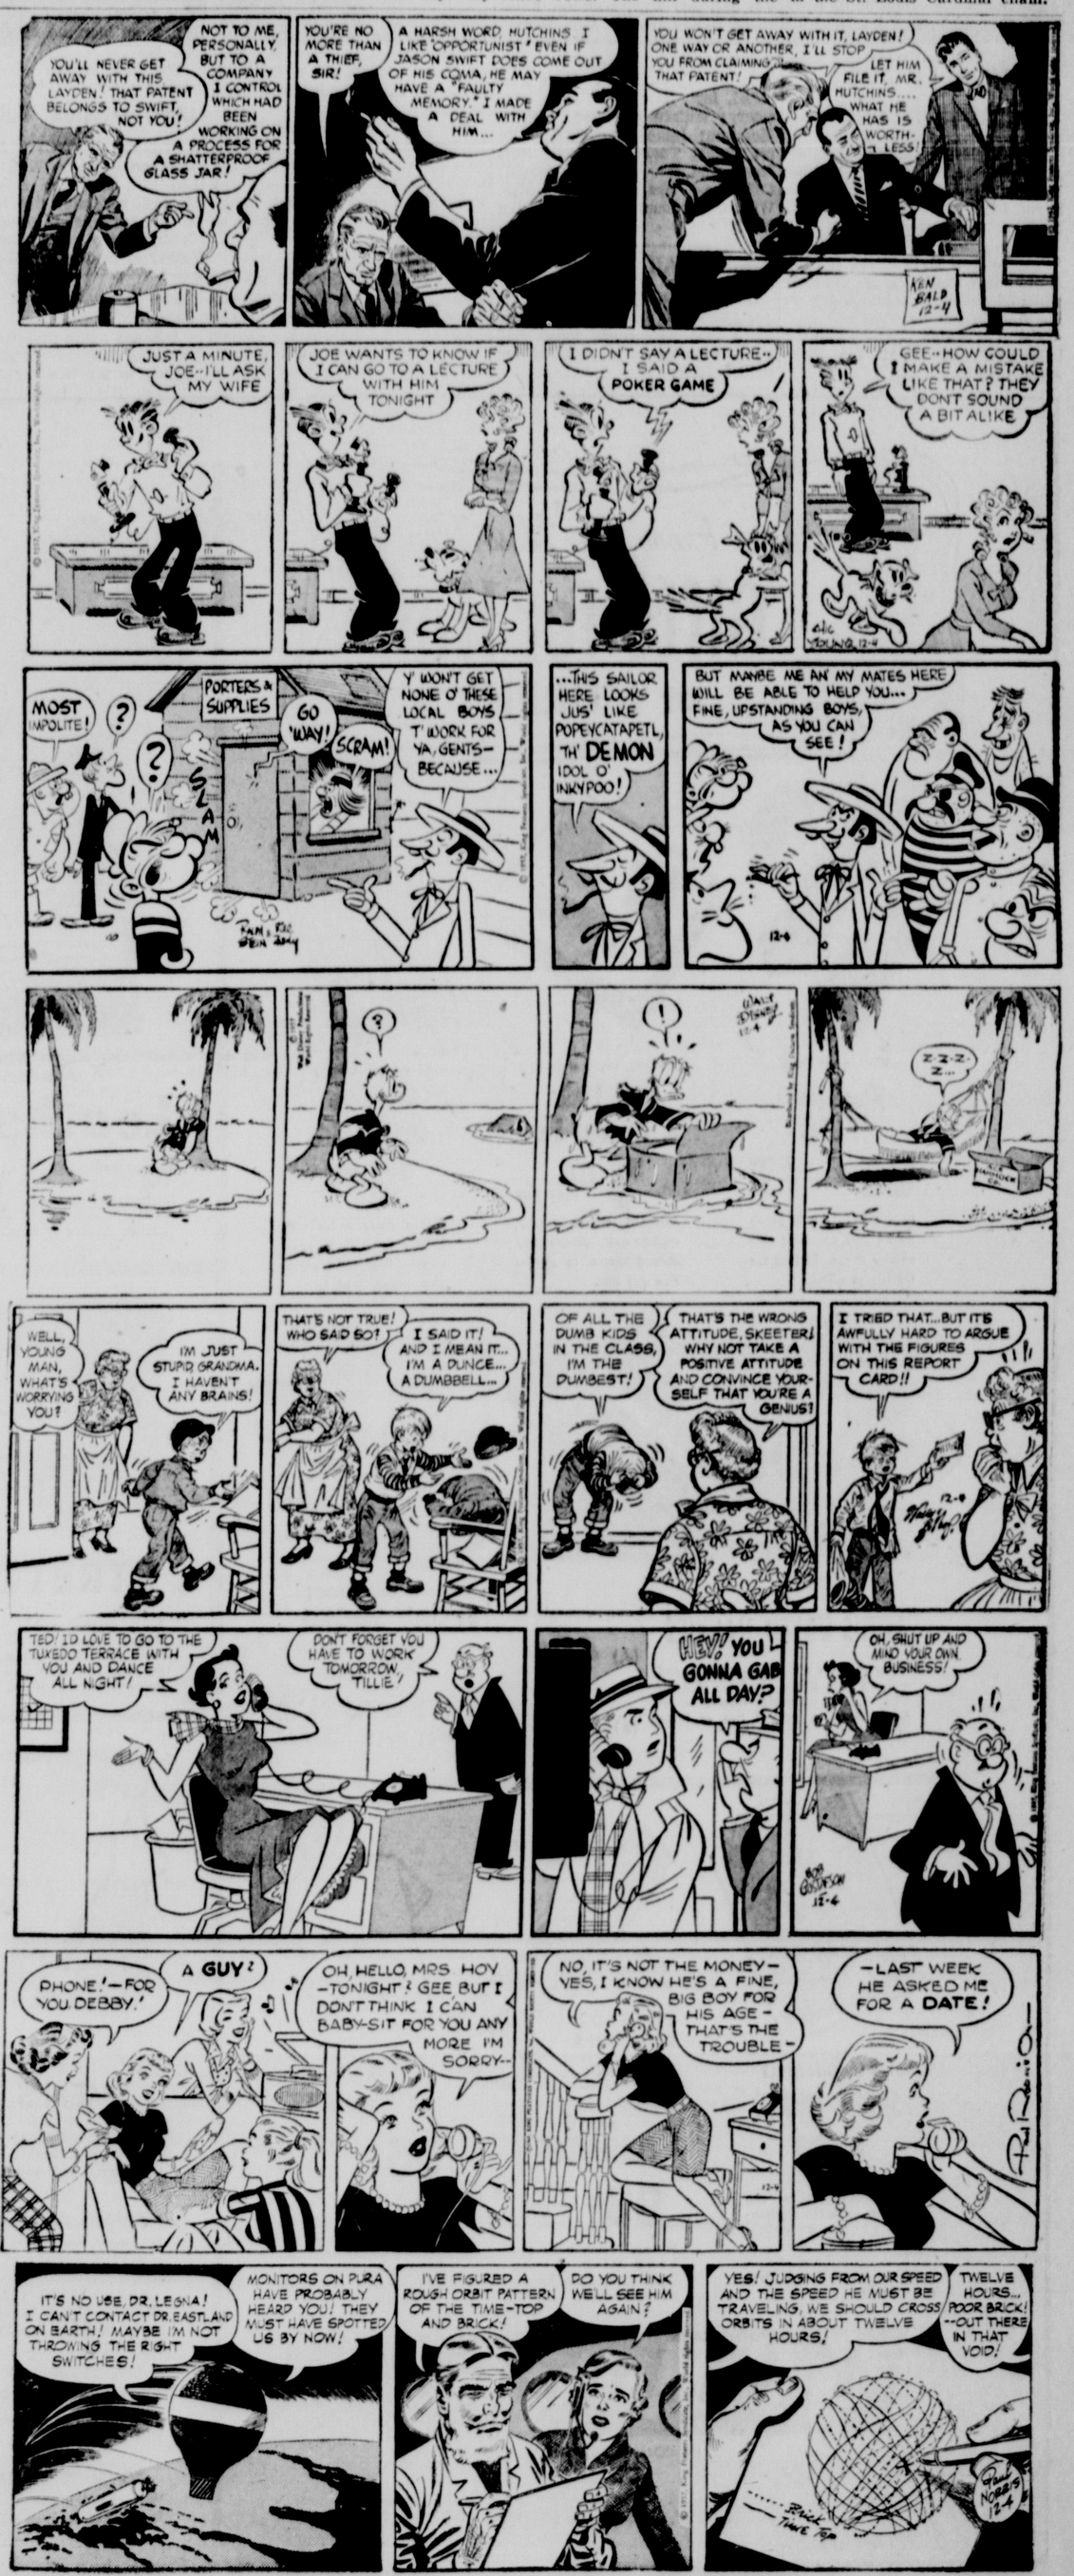

Conservation director Thomas A. Schrader says this harvest may be only about 30 per cent of the birds available for cropping under good management practices.

Schrader says he'll recommend an additional season of 10 days to two weeks be authorized, starting Dec. 21. With a good hatch, he added, next year might be something like the roaring 40s all over again.

So you see how it is. Once in a while, they do come back.

With a little help.

Solons Plan Hearing on Swimming Pool

Another step toward permitting construction of a swimming pool just south of Ted Lewis Park was taken last night by City Council.

The lawmakers asked City Solicitor Kenneth Robbins to prepare a resolution directing the Council clerk to advertise a public hearing on rezoning the land from Class B residential to Class C commercial.

A recommendation from the city Zoning and Planning Commission that the land be rezoned was received by Council last night. The commission reported it approved the rezoning, adding that "the city is in need of a swimming pool."

However, there are restrictions on the subsequent use of the land. It can be used only for recreational purposes.

The pool would be built by the Leatherwood Brothers, Ashville, as a commercial venture. The city would not participate in any way in construction of the pool, except for rezoning the land to permit its construction.

* * *

AFTER ADVERTISING the rezoning for 30 days, the matter will come before Council at a public hearing. After the hearing Council will decide whether or not to rezone the property, which lies west of Court St. and south of Ted Lewis Park.

Robbins again protested that the rezoning "in my opinion is spot zoning to the Nth degree".

City Plans New Street Light System with Electric Company

New street lighting system is in the works for Circleville. Last night City Council placed on first reading a new street lighting ordinance.

The ordinance would permit the city to renew a 10-year contract with the Columbus and Southern Ohio Electric Co. to provide lighting for the streets.

At present the city has 106 lights of 65 watts each, 183 lights of 150 watts each and 37 lights in the downtown area of 500 watts each. The system is costing the city $8,992 annually.

Under the new proposal there will be 273 lights of 150 watts each, 37 lights of 325 watts each, and 51 new type mercury vapor lamps. The annual charge would be $11,567.50, an increase of $2,575.50 for the year.

The new system would include additional lamps. Along E. Main St where there are now six lights there would be 16. On W. Main St. the lights would be increased by adding four new lights west of the railroad.

* * *

THERE WOULD be 12 lights along S. Court St. where there are now six, and the present five lights on N. Court St. would be replaced with nine.

The new system would more than double the amount of light used in the city.
